Queen Visits Cockney Areas

Her Tours Will Take Six Weeks

Adoring Subjects Are Looking to Golden Reign of Splendor for New Ruler

London, June 3 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, truly crowned "in the sight of all the people," turned today from the paths of pageantry to dingy Cockney streets and a round of personal calls on her adoring subjects.

Yesterday's exaltation, now consecrated in Britain's memory, marked the beginning of six weeks of coronation journeys among Britons choking with pride over the radiant sovereign they look to lead them into a new Elizabethan age of golden splendor.

Chats With Plain People

With her handsome husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, at her side, Elizabeth today started motoring through neighborhood byways for face-to-face chats with plain people.

First on her itinerary was London's northeast section where she will drive this afternoon past the homes of the poor and the humble, including the true Cockneys—those born within the sound of the bells of famous old Bow Church.

Tomorrow the royal couple visits northwest London, with tours of other sections of the city Sunday and Monday.

For distinguished coronation guests, the Queen presides at state banquets at Buckingham Palace tonight and tomorrow night.

Symbol of Unity

Elizabeth's travels through her capital, and in future weeks through other key cities of her home islands, typify the task destiny has cut out for her—to be her subjects' living symbol of everything Britain cherishes, to be the tie holding together the varied races of the Commonwealth to whom she is the queen and first citizen.

In London, throughout Great Britain and in every continent where Britain's influence in history has left indelible marks, peoples celebrated the Queen's coronation yesterday in ancient Westminster Abbey.

In these islands they carried their happiness into the rain-drenched night in an ecstacy of carnival spirit.

100,000 Cheer

Crowds growing to 100,000 cheered the Queen and her family six different appearances they made on the flood-lit balcony at Buckingham Palace. Thousands danced in the streets. Great bonfires blazed through the land. Fireworks turned London's night into a spectacular theatrical pageant.

The fever of the coronation ebbed only in the early hours today, when the tired thousands finally took to bed.

Hong Kong Celebrates

Hong Kong, June 3 (AP)—The mainland portion of this British colony on the doorstep of Communist China celebrated the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth today as 500,000 people jammed the streets of Kowloon for a dragon parade. The parade featured a 180-foot dragon snaking through the streets. It was a repeat of one yesterday on Hong Kong Island watched by close to one million spectators.

Citizen of Two Nations

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 3 (AP)—A girl born to a Williamsville, N. Y., couple visiting here yesterday became a citizen of two nations and was christened Elizabeth in honor of Britain's Queen. The child was born prematurely to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lunney of the Buffalo suburb. Under laws of both countries, she will be a citizen of both the U. S. and Canada until she is 21, when she may choose her country.

School Tax Cut to $22.52

Amended Budget Is $17,048 Lower; 45 Apply for Principal

The city school budget for the fiscal year 1953-54 was amended last night and adopted by the board of education reducing the general tax levy from $755,374.12 to $738,325.74, a decrease of $17,048.38.

The board also decided to seek further applications for the position of high school principal to succeed John Henry Martin and voted to change the present Physical Education sign on the new field house to Kate Walton Field House.

By amending the tax levy the tax rate on assessed value was changed from $23.04 per thousand to $22.52 per thousand.

The reduction became possible through two changes in estimated revenues. The item, uncollected taxes and fees, was changed from $17,837.53 to $16,885.91 and the item, tuition, was changed from $110,000 to $128,000.

This produced a change in total estimated revenues from $1,091,136.28 to $1,108,184.66. The total appropriation for the new school year amounts to $1,846,510.40.

45 Applicants for Job

The decision to seek further for a principal for Kingston High School followed intensive discussion by the board during which President Clarence S. Rowland announced that 45 or 46 applications had already been received.

Superintendent of Schools Arthur H. Laidlaw, who serves as secretary of the board, said he had written to a large number of colleges advising of the board's interest in obtaining a principal for the high school and William Rylance suggested following it up with a second letter.

Chester A. Baltz reported that "a man upstate with quite a lot of experience" and another from Rhode Island were expected for interviews within a few days but that the upstate man was asking $9,500. The present salary limit on the local schedule for a high school principal is $8,000.

Baltz explained that no fixed salary was being offered for the position but that it was based to some extent on what the applicant was making in his present job.

Suggests More Money

Mrs. Vincent Connelly suggested the possible need of offering as much as $8,500 or even $9,000 to get the kind of man they wanted and Baltz expressed agreement. Richard Kalish, however, pointed out that practically none of the applicants were getting more than $8,000 in their present positions.

"I sometimes wonder if we are not better off taking a man from a smaller school who has even greater incentive to build himself up" and to do a good job, Kalish said.

Robert Herzog suggested the possibility of getting someone from a school of from 600 to 1,000 pupils but felt that it would be very difficult to "pull out" a man like the upstate principal whose present salary was $9,500. He explained that most of the applications had been received from principals of schools with enrollments of only a few hundred pupils.

To Change Sign

The resolution to change the sign on the field house was on a motion by Kalish who said the present sign "disturbs me no end." He said he knew there was to be a plaque inside the building dedicating the structure to Kate Walton, late beloved teacher in the high school, but that he would like to see the present sign taken down and Kate Walton Field House put up in its place.

He said the sign, Physical Education, had been in the architect's plans but the public had shown deep interest in the name

Council Is Asked to Get CD Spotters

Aldermen Are Invited to Attend Meeting Tuesday; Pass on City Matters at Session

Local aldermen were asked at last night's Common Council meeting to help campaign for an adequate civil defense corps.

The council also referred for consideration proposed new traffic regulations near the George Washington School, approved consolidation of the Pine Hill-Kingston and Woodstock-Kingston bus corporations as to franchise rights, and received notice of Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter.

Mrs. G. D. Logan, post supervisor of the Kingston Ground Observers Corps said men volunteers were urgently needed to serve as spotters at the Governor Clinton Hotel from midnight to 6 a. m., and she asked the aldermen to campaign in their wards so that the city may maintain its full spotter corps.

Officials Serving

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly, and Aldermen James K. Ryan and Joseph Wenzel, she said, have been serving as spotters and were "doing a good job."

Those serving now are doing three and four shifts a week, but if a full force is maintained the volunteers will be required to serve only two hours a week.

Mrs. Logan invited the aldermen to attend a meeting next Tuesday at 8 p. m., in the Governor Clinton Hotel when certificates will be presented to persons who have served 100 hours since last July.

General to Attend

Civil defense officials will attend the meeting next week. The meeting was arranged by Mrs. Logan, who has had previous wartime civil defense experience, and who has been on the job this time since 1950.

Brigadier Gen. James McCauley, commanding general of the 26th Air Division, will attend.

Alderman-at-Large Kelly urged each alderman to attend the meeting next Tuesday and to follow through with Mrs. Logan's suggestion to strengthen the observer corps.

More women are also needed for the corps, Mrs. Logan said, but the more urgent need is for men to meet the needs of the overnight schedule. She commended the Governor Clinton Hotel, The Freeman and the local radio station, and all those who have been serving, for their cooperation.

Post Won't Close

Some "are hard hours to serve" she said, "but then we have to think of what our boys are doing for us."

The post, "definitely is not going to close," she stressed, and it is up to the people of the city to see that it is maintained in full service. The post has not closed since last July 14 when it opened, and she said she was told yesterday that it is "one of the finest in the state."

Eisenhower Will Make TV Report To People Tonight

Four Cabinet Members Will Fill in Details on Administration Future Plans

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower makes his first television report to the people tonight (9:30 p. m.), apparently to bear down on the idea that in such perilous times spending must come down but not too much and taxes remain up.

Four cabinet members will be on the program, too, taking their cues from the President and from big printed cards outside camera range.

Reports were there might be some word on a new "goldfish bowl policy" of publicity for tax enforcement cases, perhaps to emphasize that the administration is trying to clean up what Eisenhower has called "the mess in Washington."

But there were no advance signs the half-hour TV show would produce any major announcements. The White House says the program is intended largely to tell the people what the administration has done, and why, in its first four months.

On Four Networks

All four TV networks will carry the program. Along with the President, it will list Atty.-Gen. Brownell, Secretary of Agriculture Benson, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Hobby.

If present plans go through, what people will see on their TV screens is a picture of the President seated at a big desk in a conference room a few steps from his White House office. The cabinet members will occupy a brown leather divan nearby.

Eisenhower probably will start off with a general statement of some sort, then bring up specific subjects and ask the cabinet members to fill in details.

In one version that remained subject to change, the chief executive, in a rehearsal yesterday, took up his tax program, then tapped Humphrey to give his own views on that and on financial problems the President says were inherited largely from the Truman administration.

The two talk back and forth, and Humphrey says the President's tax program is essential to checking inflation and keeping a strong defense. He assures Eisenhower that "I know you never promised tax cuts as of any given time." Failure of the tax program to go through Congress, he says, will mean more inflation—higher costs of food, clothing and shelter.

Expects Support for Plan

And the President says he thinks the people and Congress will support his tax plan, which would hold off any tax reduction at least until Jan. 1.

Humphrey also is supposed to say at one point that the budget can't be balanced now except by raising taxes or reducing national defense below the danger point.

Leaves for Russia

Tehran, Iran, June 3 (AP)—Russian Ambassador Ivan Sadchikov left for home today. No official reason was given for the trip.

Walton Field House To Open Tomorrow

Dinner in New Cafeteria Is Complete Sell-Out; Public Inspection

Official opening of the handsome new half million dollar Kate Walton Field House adjoining Kingston High School will be held tomorrow beginning with a dinner in the new high school cafeteria at 6:15 p. m.

Tickets for the dinner have already been sold out, it was announced today by Arthur H. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools.

Tour Is Scheduled

Following the dinner, which is being sponsored by the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Clubs of the city, a tour of the field house and the high school system will be conducted. The tour of inspection will visit the vocational building first, proceed thence to the Myron J. Michael School and then to the field house. Those who have visited the MJM School on some other occasion and do not wish to make the trip to that school will go directly from the vocational building to the field house.

Those who do not have dinner at the cafeteria will have an opportunity to inspect the handsome new cafeteria facilities following the tour of the field house.

Open House Tomorrow

President Clarence H. Rowland of the board of education has announced that there will be open house all day tomorrow to permit parents and friends to visit the field house, the high school, the vocational building and the MJM School and watch the system in action.

Robert Herzog of the board of education reported at the meeting

3 Teachers Serve 150 Years, to Quit

Three teachers in the Kingston public school system with a total of 150 years of teaching in local schools will resign at the end of the present school year, it was announced at the meeting of the board of education last night.

Two of the three are sisters, Sophie and Florence Finn, the former with 51 years of teaching, the latter with 46 years. The third teacher, with a total of 53 years of educational service, is Marguerite FitzGerald.

All Are Natives

All three are native Kingstonians. Sophie Finn is presently teaching in School No. 2, the same school which she herself attended many years ago.

The board received letters of resignation last night from the Finn sisters and directed Secretary Arthur H. Laidlaw to respond with appropriate letters of appreciation for their long, unselfish service in the interests of the young people of Kingston, thousands of whom have sat in their classes.

Following the reading of the letter from the Finn sisters, Laidlaw called attention to the fact that Miss FitzGerald was also resigning at the end of the current school term.

Battle Still Rages Today In Eastern Korea Sector

Seoul, June 3 (AP)—Stubborn North Korean Reds, bayoneted from allied main line trenches in eastern Korea early today, stormed back this afternoon and tangled with tough South Korean infantrymen in savage close-quarter combat.

The battle on Luke the Gook's Castle still raged. There was no information on the size of the Red attack force.

Fog, rain and haze slowed but did not halt the aerial war.

Sabre jet fighters prowled the skies over northwest Korea without sighting a Communist MIG jet. Sabres flying as fighter-bombers pounded Red supply lines, while other fighter-bombers hit Communist battle front positions.

Reds Dig In

South Korean infantrymen counterattacked Red troops dug in on Luke's Castle at dusk Tuesday, with allied tanks pouring shells into Communist positions ahead of the assault waves.

By dawn, after a full night of bitter close-quarter fighting, the last Red had been knocked off the hill, the Eighth army said.

It was the third time South Koreans had counterattacked in the Luke's Castle sector. Americans and ROKs stopped other Red forces which charged 11 main line positions and five outposts.

The Communists lost an estimated 1,100 men killed and wounded Tuesday in the heaviest eastern front fighting in more than a year.

Fly 400 Sorties

Allied fighter-bombers flew more than 400 sorties in direct support of ground troops. The fighter-bombers and night-flying B-26 bombers dropped more than 500 tons of explosives on battlefront targets the air force said.

An Eighth Army briefing officer reported that 1,380 Chinese bodies were counted during the bitter outpost battles for Finger Ridge and Bloody Ridge on the east-central front last week. He said another 941 Reds were believed dead and about 714 were wounded.

Record Assessment

New York, June 3 (AP)—Assessed valuation of New York city's taxable real estate and special franchises has risen to a record high of $19,814,318,222 for the fiscal year starting July 1. The figure is an increase of $388,858,835 over the current fiscal year and an increase of $197,402,793 over the previous peak of $19,616,915,429 reached in 1932. The new assessments were made public yesterday by Tax Commission President William E. Boyland.

Will Seek Divorce

Hollywood, June 3 (AP)—After a six-year estrangement, actress Ann Rutherford plans soon to seek a Nevada divorce from David May, heir to a department store fortune. "It's all on a very friendly and amicable basis," Miss Rutherford said yesterday in telling of plans to go to Reno or Las Vegas. The actress and May have a daughter, Gloria, 9.

Congress Appears Behind President's Plan on Red China

Leaders Agree to Accept Eisenhower Method of Paying in UN. Barring China

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Congress appears on the way toward accepting President Eisenhower's personally exercised leadership on Red China and reciprocal trade policies.

As the result of direct presidential intervention the Senate was ready to approve an appropriations bill rider limited to expressing the opinion that the Chinese Communists should not be admitted to the United Nations.

At the President's suggestion in a White House conference, congressional leaders substituted this yesterday for a sharp-toothed rider which would have cut off U. S. fund contributions for the UN if it admitted the Chinese Reds.

The President's hand was almost as clearly discernible in a compromise agreement reached by House leaders to push through legislation requested by the White House to extend the present reciprocal trade agreements program for one year.

Promises Speedy Action

House leaders bypassed controversial changes to which the President had objected and Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) of the Senate Finance Committee promised speedy consideration in the Senate after the House clears the measure.

The two abrupt changes in course by congressional leaders marked Eisenhower's biggest success to date in influencing the course of legislation.

But the congressional lieutenants were not without their own tokens of victory.

Goes Limit

Sens. Bridges of New Hampshire, the president pro-tempore, and Knowland of California, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, claimed Eisenhower had gone farther than any previous commitment of his own or the preceding Democratic administration in promising opposition to Red China's admission to the UN.

They said the President promised that U. S. delegates to the UN not only would vote against such action but would take the lead in the fight to prevent Communists from displacing Chinese Nationalists on the Security Council.

"There is no question that the position the President has taken goes beyond anything promised by the previous administration," Knowland commented.

Talbott Says Cutback No Serious Item

Washington, June 3 (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Talbott told senators today that a cutback of more than five billion dollars in new air force funds will not seriously delay new combat equipment for 143 or more wings.

The present interim goal of the Eisenhower administration is 120 wings by December, 1955. However, Talbott testified the goal may be raised within the next six months after a restudy of overall defense plans by the new joint chiefs of staff. A wing varies in size from 75 fighters to 30 bombers.

Talbott gave complete backing to the reduced defense budget of President Eisenhower. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, retiring chief of the air staff, waited a chance to give his views.

Vandenberg was expected to oppose the air force cuts.

Both were called before a televised, brightly-lighted public hearing of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee.

Lengthy questions by Chairman Ferguson (R.-Mich.) about unspent billions and past plans delayed Vandenberg's testimony temporarily.

"It is my considered opinion that the air force budget now before you is a sound one at this time," Talbott said. He added he and Secretary of Defense Wilson would ask more funds and a higher goal if this is decided upon later.

'Used Terrible Words'

Los Angeles, June 3 (AP)—Mrs. Stanley W. Barbee, 41, wife of the soft drink magnate, won a divorce yesterday on testimony her husband struck her and "used terrible words." Her complaint accused the 59-year-old president of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Los Angeles of spending $30,000 in eight months on other women, but when Barbee failed to contest the suit the charges received no elaboration. The complaint also accused him of maintaining four New York apartments for entertaining women. The court granted the divorce on cruelty grounds and approved a property settlement of $121,000. Barbee and the former Yvonne Marchaise La Grave of Paris married in 1947 and separated after a spat in a New York restaurant last year.

Committee Sees No Safety Against Attack by A-Bomb

Washington, June 3 (AP)—An advisory committee of industrial and scientific leaders told the Defense Department today that "in the light of stern facts" there can be no safety against atomic attack for the United States.

The committee, headed by M. J. Kelly, president of Bell Telephone Laboratories, was appointed last December to study the problems of defense of the North American continent against atomic attack.

The Defense Department rushed out a summary of the committee's report this morning, an hour before Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg was scheduled to appear before a congressional committee for questioning as to whether the budget cutbacks proposed by the administration would set back the air force's expansion program.

In its summary, the committee commented that "the Soviet Union is militarily capable today of a surprise attack in the United States which would cause large loss of life and major property damage and possibly temporarily lessen the capability of the U. S. to support a major war effort."

On that ground the committee argued for speedy development of "atomic offensive capability" as a deterrent.

Kingston Trust Branch Will Open for Business Monday

Modern interior of Kingston Trust's Central Branch

Inspection for Public Is Scheduled From Noon to 9 P.M. Saturday

The Kingston Trust Company's reconstructed Central Branch building at Broadway and Dederick street will be open for public inspection on Saturday from noon until 9 p. m.

Following Saturday's formal opening, the bank will officially open for business on Monday morning, although some business has been transacted there this week.

The building, completely renovated inside and out, is to all practical purposes a new building, its two outside walls having been rebuilt.

The cornerstone was laid with ceremonies on November 16, 1952. The building committee consisted of Cornelius S. Treadwell, chairman, A. H. Chambers, Henry J. Wieber and President Alva S. Staples.

The building, reconstructed by Hoggson Brothers of New York, bank building specialists, has been changed inside and out.

The third floor of the old building has been completely taken

Central Business Association Plans for Banks' Openings

The Central Businessmen's Association of Kingston announced today it was planning for the opening of two new banks in the central area of the city this month.

The Kingston Trust Company's new central branch bank will formally open Saturday. Its doors will open at noon and remain open until 9 p. m., and there will be awards in observance of the occasion.

Opening of the new Rondout National Bank has been delayed until Monday, June 22 at 9 a. m.

Starting Monday, June 8, the Kingston Trust Company's new branch will be open daily from 9 a. m., to 3 p. m., Monday through Friday, and Friday evenings from 6:45 to 8 p. m.

On June 22 the Rondout National Bank will be fully completed with a drive-in window, parking area and landscaping. It will be open for business, and it plans to present more than $2,000 in awards.

The Central Businessmen's Association will make these plans "to coordinate its advertising with the advertising of both banks." All individual advertisers are requested to contact Donald Burgher at The Freeman."

The association will hold its regular monthly meeting in the YMCA tomorrow at 8 p. m.

Post Won't Close

Some "are hard hours to serve" she said, "but then we have to think of what our boys are doing for us."

The post, "definitely is not going to close," she stressed, and it is up to the people of the city to see that it is maintained in full service. The post has not closed since last July 14 when it opened, and she said she was told yesterday that it is "one of the finest in the state."

Eisenhower Will Make TV Report To People Tonight

Four Cabinet Members Will Fill in Details on Administration Future Plans

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower makes his first television report to the people tonight (9:30 p. m.), apparently to bear down on the idea that in such perilous times spending must come down but not too much and taxes remain up.

Four cabinet members will be on the program, too, taking their cues from the President and from big printed cards outside camera range.

Reports were there might be some word on a new "goldfish bowl policy" of publicity for tax enforcement cases, perhaps to emphasize that the administration is trying to clean up what Eisenhower has called "the mess in Washington."

But there were no advance signs the half-hour TV show would produce any major announcements. The White House says the program is intended largely to tell the people what the administration has done, and why, in its first four months.

On Four Networks

All four TV networks will carry the program. Along with the President, it will star Atty.-Gen. Brownell, Secretary of Agriculture Benson, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Hobby.

If present plans go through, what people will see on their TV screens is a picture of the President seated at a big desk in a conference room a few steps from his White House office. The cabinet members will occupy a brown leather divan nearby.

Eisenhower probably will start off with a general statement of some sort, then bring up specific subjects and ask the cabinet members to fill in details.

In one version that remained subject to change, the chief executive, in a rehearsal yesterday, took up his tax program, then tapped Humphrey to give his own views on that and on financial problems the President says were inherited largely from the Truman administration.

The two talk back and forth, and Humphrey says the President's tax program is essential to checking inflation and keeping a strong defense. He assures Eisenhower that "I know you never promised tax cuts as of any given time." Failure of the tax program to go through Congress, he says, will mean more inflation—higher costs of food, clothing and shelter.

Expects Support for Plan

And the President says he thinks the people and Congress will support his tax plan, which would hold off any tax reduction at least until Jan. 1.

Humphrey also is supposed to say at one point that the budget can't be balanced now except by raising taxes or reducing national defense below the danger point.

Leaves for Russia

Tehran, Iran, June 3 (AP)—Russian Ambassador Ivan Sadchikov left for home today. No official reason was given for the trip.

Walton Field House To Open Tomorrow

Dinner in New Cafeteria Is Complete Sell-Out; Public Inspection

Official opening of the handsome new half million dollar Kate Walton Field House adjoining Kingston High School will be held tomorrow beginning with a dinner in the new high school cafeteria at 6:15 p. m.

Tickets for the dinner have already been sold out, it was announced today by Arthur H. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools.

Tour Is Scheduled

Following the dinner, which is being sponsored by the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Clubs of the city, a tour of the field house and the high school system will be conducted. The tour of inspection will visit the vocational building first, proceed thence to the Myron J. Michael School and then to the field house. Those who have visited the MJM School on some other occasion and do not wish to make the trip to that school will go directly from the vocational building to the field house.

Those who do not have dinner at the cafeteria will have an opportunity to inspect the handsome new cafeteria facilities following the tour of the field house.

Open House Tomorrow

President Clarence H. Rowland of the board of education has announced that there will be open house all day tomorrow to permit parents and friends to visit the field house, the high school, the vocational building and the MJM School and watch the system in action.

Robert Herzog of the board of education reported at the meeting

3 Teachers Serve 150 Years, to Quit

Three teachers in the Kingston public school system with a total of 150 years of teaching in local schools will resign at the end of the present school year, it was announced at the meeting of the board of education last night.

Two of the three are sisters, Sophie and Florence Finn, the former with 51 years of teaching, the latter with 46 years. The third teacher, with a total of 53 years of educational service, is Marguerite FitzGerald.

All Are Natives

All three are native Kingstonians. Sophie Finn is presently teaching in School No. 2, the same school which she herself attended many years ago.

The board received letters of resignation last night from the Finn sisters and directed Secretary Arthur H. Laidlaw to respond with appropriate letters of appreciation for their long, unselfish service in the interests of the young people of Kingston, thousands of whom have sat in their classes.

Following the reading of the letter from the Finn sisters, Laidlaw called attention to the fact that Miss FitzGerald was also resigning at the end of the current school term.

Amended Budget Is $17,048 Lower; 45 Apply for Principal

The city school budget for the fiscal year 1953-54 was amended last night and adopted by the board of education reducing the general tax levy from $755,374.12 to $738,325.74, a decrease of $17,048.38.

The board also decided to seek further applications for the position of high school principal to succeed John Henry Martin and voted to change the present Physical Education sign on the new field house to Kate Walton Field House.

By amending the tax levy the tax rate on assessed value was changed from $23.04 per thousand to $22.52 per thousand.

The reduction became possible through two changes in estimated revenues. The item, uncollected taxes and fees, was changed from $17,837.53 to $16,885.91 and the item, tuition, was changed from $110,000 to $128,000.

This produced a change in total estimated revenues from $1,091,136.28 to $1,108,184.66. The total appropriation for the new school year amounts to $1,846,510.40.

45 Applicants for Job

The decision to seek further for a principal for Kingston High School followed intensive discussion by the board during which President Clarence S. Rowland announced that 45 or 46 applications had already been received.

Superintendent of Schools Arthur H. Laidlaw, who serves as secretary of the board, said he had written to a large number of colleges advising of the board's interest in obtaining a principal for the high school and William Rylance suggested following it up with a second letter.

Chester A. Baltz reported that "a man upstate with quite a lot of experience" and another from Rhode Island were expected for interviews within a few days but that the upstate man was asking $9,500. The present salary limit on the local schedule for a high school principal is $8,000.

Baltz explained that no fixed salary was being offered for the position but that it was based to some extent on what the applicant was making in his present job.

Suggests More Money

Mrs. Vincent Connelly suggested the possible need of offering as much as $8,500 or even $9,000 to get the kind of man they wanted and Baltz expressed agreement. Richard Kalish, however, pointed out that practically none of the applicants were getting more than $8,000 in their present positions.

"I sometimes wonder if we are not better off taking a man from a smaller school who has even greater incentive to build himself up" and to do a good job, Kalish said.

Robert Herzog suggested the possibility of getting someone from a school of from 600 to 1,000 pupils but felt that it would be very difficult to "pull out" a man like the upstate principal whose present salary was $9,500. He explained that most of the applications had been received from principals of schools with enrollments of only a few hundred pupils.

To Change Sign

The resolution to change the sign on the field house was on a motion by Kalish who said the present sign "disturbs me no end." He said he knew there was to be a placque inside the building dedicating the structure to Kate Walton, late beloved teacher in the high school, but that he would like to see the present sign taken down and Kate Walton Field House put up in its place.

He said the sign, Physical Education, had been in the architect's plans but the public had shown deep interest in the name

Her Tours Will Take Six Weeks

Adoring Subjects Are Looking to Golden Reign of Splendor for New Ruler

London, June 3 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, truly crowned "in the sight of all the people," turned today from the paths of pageantry to dingy Cockney streets and a round of personal calls on her adoring subjects.

Yesterday's exaltation, now consecrated in Britain's memory, marked the beginning of six weeks of coronation journeys among Britons choking with pride over the radiant sovereign they look to lead them into a new Elizabethan age of golden splendor.

Chats With Plain People

With her handsome husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, at her side, Elizabeth today started motoring through neighborhood byways for face-to-face chats with plain people.

First on her itinerary was London's northeast section where she will drive this afternoon past the homes of the poor and the humble, including the true Cockneys—those born within the sound of the bells of famous old Bow Church.

Tomorrow the royal couple visits northwest London, with tours of other sections of the city Sunday and Monday.

For distinguished coronation guests, the Queen presides at state banquets at Buckingham Palace tonight and tomorrow night.

Symbol of Unity

Elizabeth's travels through her capital, and in future weeks through other key cities of her home islands, typify the task destiny has cut out for her—to be her subjects' living symbol of everything Britain cherishes, to be the tie holding together the varied races of the Commonwealth to whom she is the queen and first citizen.

In London, throughout Great Britain and in every continent where Britain's contribution to history has left indelible marks, peoples celebrated the Queen's coronation yesterday in ancient Westminster Abbey.

In these islands they carried their happiness into the rain-drenched night in an ecstacy of carnival spirit.

100,000 Cheer

Crowds growing to 100,000 cheered the Queen and her family on six different appearances they made on the flood-lit balcony at Buckingham Palace. Thousands danced in the streets. Great bonfires blazed through the land. Fireworks turned London's night into a spectacular theatrical pageant.

The fever of the coronation ebbed only in the early hours today, when the tired thousands finally took to bed.

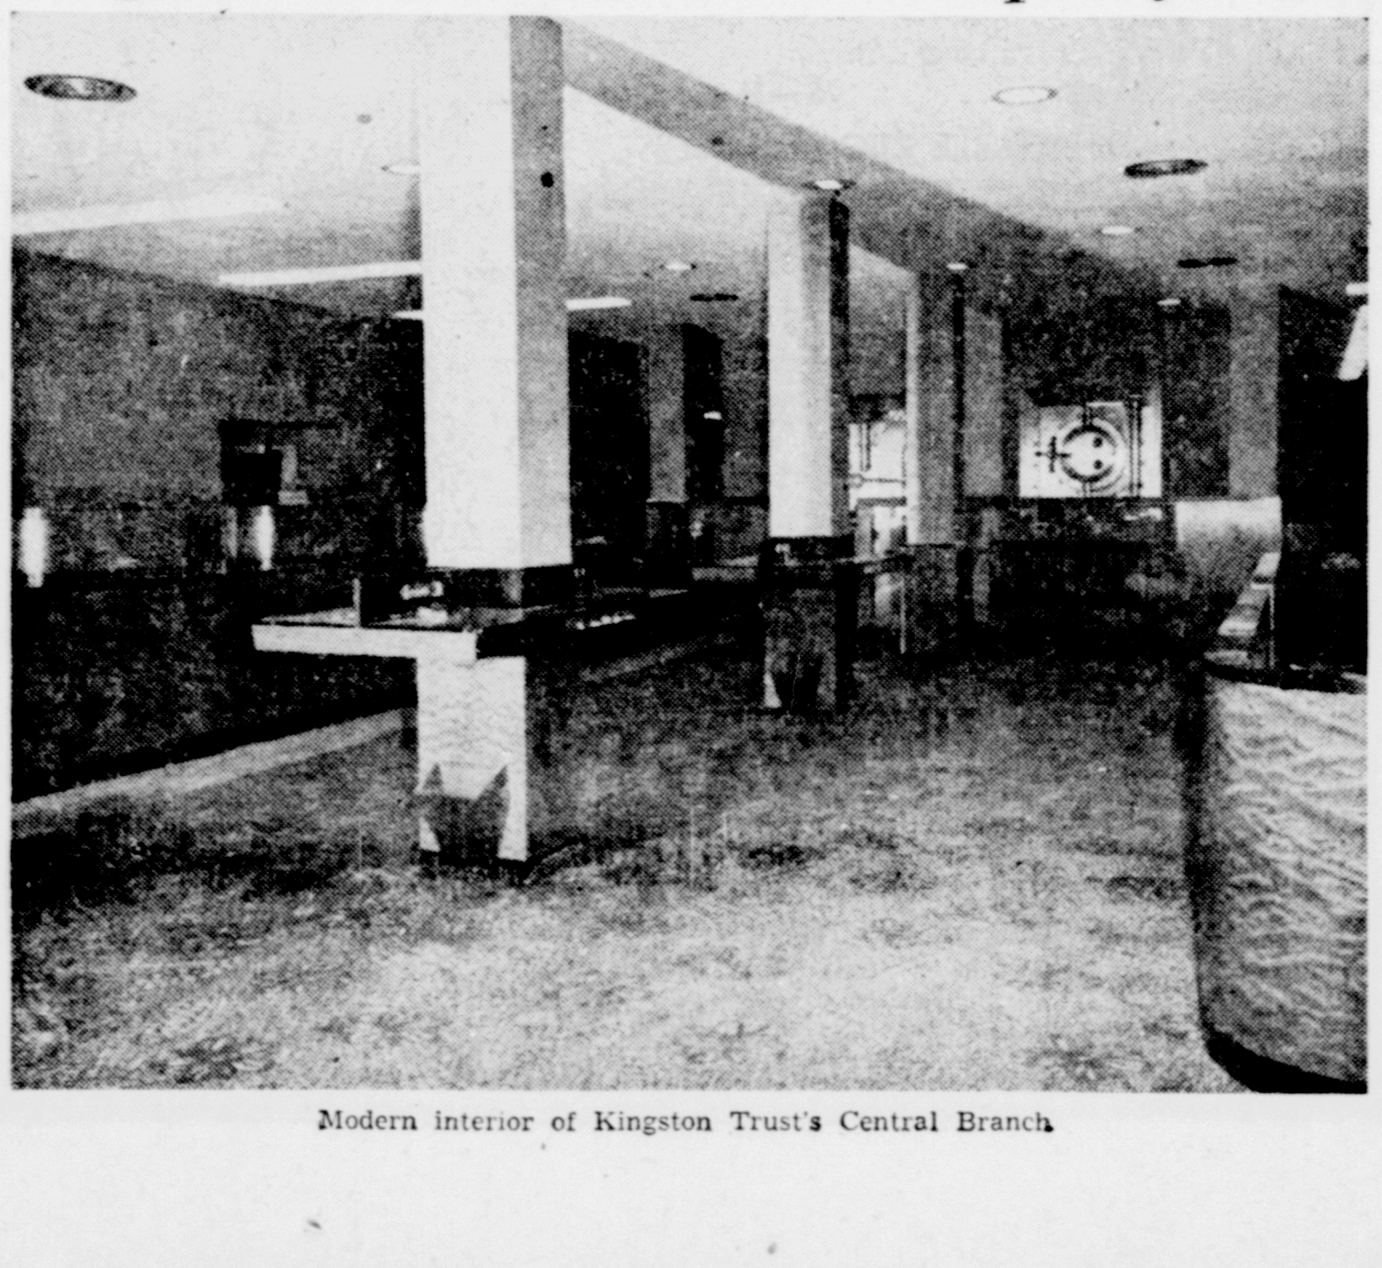
Hong Kong Celebrates

Hong Kong, June 3 (AP)—The mainland portion of this British colony on the doorstep of Communist China celebrated the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth today as 500,000 people jammed the streets of Kowloon for a dragon parade. The parade featured a 180-foot dragon snaking through the streets. It was a repeat of one yesterday on Hong Kong Island watched by close to one million spectators.

Citizen of Two Nations

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 3 (AP)—A girl born to a Williamsville, N. Y., couple visiting here yesterday became a citizen of two nations and was christened Elizabeth in honor of Britain's Queen. The child was born prematurely to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lunney of the Buffalo suburb. Under laws of both countries, she will be a citizen of both the U. S. and Canada until she is 21, when she may choose her country.

Kingston Trust Branch Will Open for Business Monday



Modern interior of Kingston Trust's Central Branch

Inspection for Public Is Scheduled From Noon to 9 P.M. Saturday

The Kingston Trust Company's reconstructed Central Branch building at Broadway and Dederick street will be open for public inspection on Saturday from noon until 9 p. m.

Following Saturday's formal opening, the bank will officially open for business on Monday morning, although some business has been transacted there this week.

The building, completely renovated inside and out, is to all practical purposes a new building, its two outside walls having been rebuilt.

The cornerstone was laid with ceremonies on November 16, 1952. The building committee consisted of Cornelius S. Treadwell, chairman, A. H. Chambers, Henry J. Wieber and President Alva S. Staples.

The building, reconstructed by Hoggson Brothers of New York, bank building specialists, has been changed inside and out.

The third floor of the old building has been completely taken

Central Business Association Plans for Banks' Openings

The Central Businessmen's Association of Kingston announced today it was planning for the opening of two new banks in the central area of the city this month.

The Kingston Trust Company's new central branch bank will formally open Saturday. Its doors will open at noon and remain open until 9 p. m., and there will be awards in observance of the occasion.

Opening of the new Rondout National Bank has been delayed until Monday, June 22 at 9 a. m.

Starting Monday, June 8, the Kingston Trust Company's new branch will be open daily from 9 a. m., to 3 p. m., Monday through Friday, and Friday evenings from 6:45 to 8 p. m.

On June 22 the Rondout National Bank will be fully completed with a drive-in window, parking area and landscaping. During the week of June 22 the bank will be open for business, and it plans to present more than $2,000 in awards.

The Central Businessmen's Association said today it has made plans "to coordinate its advertising with the advertising of both banks. All individual advertisers to requested to contact Donald Burgher at The Freeman."

The association will hold its regular monthly meeting in the YMCA tomorrow at 8 p. m.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 3, 1953

MOSCOW MAKES PLAIN ITS AIM

Russian reaction to the planned Big Three conference at Bermuda, plus rejection of renewed parleys on the Austrian treaty, speaks volumes about the real motives behind the Kremlin's "peace offensive."

The most significant thing Moscow said of the Big Three meeting was the charge that Britain, France and the United States intended to "gang up" on the Soviet Union by reaching a common viewpoint before entering into negotiations with the East.

The Reds said in so many words that they would be disinclined to take part in a four-power meeting unless the western participants approached it as independent nations prepared to express totally individual viewpoints.

This is the conclusive proof, if it were needed, that the Russian goal in the "peace offensive" is disruptive, not constructive.

It is a fundamental of Soviet thinking that the western capitalist powers inevitably will contribute to their own final downfall and the triumph of communism by quarreling seriously among themselves.

Russian strategy always is designed to encourage and exploit any conflicts that develop in the West. Differences, of course, are inescapable among free-thinking men of widely varied backgrounds and problems.

Recognizing this, the Kremlin framed the "peace" approach in considerable part to take advantage of the fact that Britain and France are less exacting than America in attaching conditions to any conference on a general world settlement.

The scheme has worked well. Prime Minister Churchill called for a Big Four meeting, and the French seconded him. Meanwhile, we hung back, demanding signs of good faith.

What Moscow wants, naturally, is to get the three western powers around the table and then play upon these different attitudes. The hope would be to open gaping holes in the unity of the West.

That is why the Kremlin is angered at the prospect of a preliminary western conference in which the three democratic nations would patch up some of their recent differences and develop a common policy to present to the Soviet Union.

Any such solid front would automatically defeat one of Russia's prime reasons for seeking a conference. And it would leave Russia exposed once more as a nation which does not sincerely desire peace, but is instead engaged in a baffling new kind of warfare that embraces every phase of human activity.

Now we are told that bees carry water as well as honey. Perhaps in time someone will prove that those stories about the industrious bee are all wet.

STILL NO DEEDS

Since the death of Stalin the Russians have demonstrated a willingness to talk about peace and cooperation in general terms. But when it comes to discussing specific issues and working out solutions the Kremlin has not been so eager.

In his foreign policy address a month ago President Eisenhower called on the Russian leaders to back up their talk of peace with peaceful deeds. He said that one way Russian could prove its sincerity would be by reaching an agreement with the West on the long delayed Austrian peace treaty. The Russians replied with more soft words. A bid was sent to the Kremlin to participate in a meeting of deputy foreign ministers of the Big Four to work out such a treaty. The Russians politely but definitely rejected the idea.

The Russian peace offensive is no longer new. Yet men continue to die in Korea and Indo-China. Austria is still without a peace treaty and there is no sign that it will get one soon. Peaceful talk is fine. It is good to hear calm words from Moscow in place of the usual insults and invective. But words without deeds are hollow and meaningless.

Unless Russia takes some concrete action to prove its sincerity the West may be excused for believing that all this talk of peace is merely another strategem of the Cold War.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE ESSENCE OF THE PROBLEM

It took a man from Hollywood, Robert Rossen, to state a case concisely and sharply. In sworn testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, he said:

". . . I don't think, after two years of thinking, that any one individual can even indulge himself in the luxury of individual morality or pit it against what I feel today very strongly is the security and safety of this nation.

"This is a government, a democracy, of laws and not of men; and the law says that this Congress or this committee of this Congress has a right to inquire into matters affecting the security of this United States of America.

"It's my duty and my right to appear here today, after much thinking, and give you whatever information I have. . . ."

In 1951, this same Robert Rosen took refuge under the Fifth Amendment. He merely stated then that he was no longer a Communist, but he would go no further. However, he reached a point in his relations with his own country and with his conscience that left him no alternative but to straighten himself out.

Sometimes it is very tough for a man to tell all that he knows. Sometimes it is even harder for a man to give names of colleagues or to denounce what he himself did or what he did in common with others. Often it involves the deepest emotions, pride, personal loyalty, even generosity. Of this Rosen said in a colloquy:

"Mr. Travenner. The committee may like to know why you have changed your mind about that.

"Mr. Rossen. Well, arriving at a decision like this takes a long time. I'd like to sort of compare it to arriving at a decision to leaving the Communist Party. That takes a long time. . . . To arrive at the decision which makes me come here today took me several years."

Rossen's testimony is the most integrated and the most informative of any that has come from the Hollywood group. This man has a philosophic mind and is capable of profound analysis. At one point, he pictures a young man who believed that his world had fallen apart:

". . . I felt that I was looking—for new horizons, a new kind of society, something I could believe in and become a part of, something in—well, in a sense I felt I wanted to attach myself to history; I wanted to be a part of that historical movement, and it seemed to me at the time the Communist Party offered, as far as I was concerned, the only way that could be effective."

We all wonder why so many smart young men turned to this movement. Rossen was not merely asking for clearance. He was explaining—he was telling:

"Mr. Clardy. Isn't that one of the reasons why we are afflicted as we are today, because there is not that drive that should come from the inner man to lead us into religion?

"Mr. Rossen. Well, I don't know. I think you can find it in many different ways, and certainly anything that tends toward the realization of the inner man, on any level . . . is a good thing; but certainly in the days that I can remember I think most of the intellectual life of the country was, in a sense, anti-religious, or atheist. . . .

"Values had broken down. This is a real fact. There weren't any values, and the Communist Party seemed to be at a place that had the values. Its people were the most dedicated. It worked the hardest, and it was interested in cultural movements. It was interested in anything you were interested in. Therefore, you felt this was the only place you could possibly go."

This was so true in many countries after World War 1. It was what turned Italian youth toward Mussolini and German youth toward Hitler. It appeared in China in the Students Movement and in Japan in the upsurge of nationalistic imperialism. Youth reaches for the stars and when the traditional ideals seem to fade away, they seek unorthodox ideals. Youth cannot live without faith and sacrifice.

Therefore, so many turn to new gods and when they discover that the new gods are only clay monkeys, they may return to the faiths of their fathers. And for some, such as Alger Hiss, it may even be too late.

THE COMMON COLD—ITS COMPLICATIONS

In describing the dangers of the common cold we have used the illustration of water entering the vestibule or first part of the house then, if not stopped, entering the various rooms of the home. Thus a cold entering the vestibule will spread along the hall and enter the various rooms, the vestibule being the mouth, then the throat (larynx), the trachea (windpipe) and the bronchial tubes. We can thus readily see how a cold traveling from mouth to larynx to trachea and to bronchial tubes is called laryngotracheobronchitis. From the bronchial tubes it may travel to the lungs and be known as pneumonia or bronchopneumonia.

In Medical Clinics of North America, Drs. J. J. Baty and M. Kreiberg, state that acute laryngotracheobronchitis is characterized by profound toxemia (poisoning of the blood), a thick sticky secretion and swelling of the larynx and first part of trachea or windpipe. The greatest number of cases of this complication of the common cold is between the ages of 1 and 3 years when it is first called croup. It occurs more often in the cold months of the year when respiratory (nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs) infections and low humidity are common.

The swelling of the inflamed tissues encroaches on the narrowest point of the airway to and from the lungs and interferes with the movements of the vocal cords. Increased breathing now made necessary dries out secretions or natural juices or liquids and this causes formation of crusts.

If a child has been immunized against diphtheria, the symptoms present are most likely due to laryngotracheobronchitis (croup). There is a sudden onset, rapid rise in temperature, a croupy cough that is dry and persistent, hoarseness, and wheezes when breathing outward (expiration). Before the attack, the child is irritable, has loose cough and running nose, then during the following week cough becomes severe and breathing labored.

When obstruction is present, Drs. Baty and Kreiberg advise treatment in hospital in a cool humid atmosphere. In hospital the equipment necessary for an emergency — oxygen, examination by the laryngoscope and insertion of a breathing tube — is present.

In severe cases of laryngotracheobronchitis, the antibiotics penicillin and chloromycetin are suggested.

It is only natural that parents should try to use a cough mixture containing a quieting drug but this is one time that a quieting drug should not be used as nature will loosen the mucus and coughing enables the child to cough up the mucus and thus open up more breathing space.

When a child has a croupy cough which frightens all parents, telephone your doctor at once. He may make immediate suggestion and visit the child if he thinks it necessary.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA)—At the recent White House Photographers' Association annual dinner, President Eisenhower got a tremendous hand from the 700 guests by screaming out a room-shaking "HEY!" He did it at the request of Liberace, the piano player, who was one of the entertainers.

Liberace played one of his stock tunes which ends with the audience letting out a big yell. He did this several times, then asked everyone but the President to be quiet. Ike complied.

In 1950, under the same circumstances, President Truman refused to go along with the stunt. When the other piano player reached a point where Truman was supposed to yell, there was just dead silence.

Sergeant Saw Stars

Movie Actor George Murphy, who was toastmaster for the photographers' dinner, added two more stories to the growing list of yarns about Ike during World War 2.

The first was about the time Ike got caught in a heavy rain near an air force base. He had his raincoat on and he ducked into a supply shack. Ike's insignia was covered and the typical supply sergeant in charge began giving loud directions about not getting the floor wet.

When Ike finally took off his raincoat and exposed his five stars, the surprised sergeant exclaimed in horror: "Holy mackerel, it's the Milky Way."

Saddened Lieutenant

Murphy's second story concerned General Eisenhower's late arrival at an army base. He had been expected early in the morning and the second lieutenant in charge of greeting him had been checking testily every few minutes with the sergeant at the gate.

When Ike finally arrived, the sergeant poked his head in the car and inquired, "Are you General Eisenhower?"

When the general said he was, the sergeant told him: "Boy, are you going to catch it from the lieutenant for being late!"

Braverman to Guggenheim

Prize crack of the week was made by Margaret Truman's sometime boy friend, Marvin Braverman, to Col. Robert Guggenheim. For months every society column in town has had the wealthy Republican angel nominated as ambassador to this country or that, without anything ever happening.

Latest word on the party circuit is that Colonel Guggenheim has finally been cleared and will soon be named envoy to Portugal. Anyway, after hearing this rumor, Braverman commented: "If they don't name you soon, Bob, I'd resign."

Brown Bess

Incidentally, Marvin Braverman saw Margaret Truman when she made an unheralded and almost unnoticed visit to Washington the other day. When he complimented her on her beautiful suntan, Miss Truman told him that even her mother had gone in for suntanning now, and had the color to prove it.

Margaret Barney for Secretary

Mum's still the word from the White House on who will finally be named social secretary for the First Lady. Friends of Margaret Barney are giving her a big boost for the appointment, claiming she's a natural for the job.

During the years that she was social secretary for the fabulous Eleanor Patterson, Miss Barney handled the millionaire publisher's entertaining in her Washington mansion. She was also whisked off to manage parties at any one of Sissy Patterson's four other places—on Long Island, in Florida, a country place in Maryland and a ranch in Wyoming.

After Mrs. Patterson's death, Margaret Barney was approached by a writer for information on her boss' life. The deal would have netted her plenty, but Miss Barney refused to consider it. That's the final test for a good social secretary.

Brownell's Light Side

Attorney General Herbert Brownell confessed in a recent speech that coming into the Department of Justice was something of an unsettling experience.

"I felt," he said, "much like the man who fell out of a fourth-story window. A crowd gathered and a policeman pushed his way through it to demand, 'What's going on here?' The poor injured man on the sidewalk raised his head and replied, 'I dunno, I just got here myself.'"

Whether the taxpayers would get their money's worth from the Republican administration, the attorney general said he would leave to them.

"So even if you feel we are short-changing the taxpayers," said Mr. Brownell, "I hope you will chalk it up to a difference of opinion and at least not ascribe to us the dubious ethics of that movie cashier who, when asked what he did when a customer forgets his change, replied: 'I knock on the window with a dollar bill.'"

Slip in Time

Nothing happened. The book wasn't opened, no secrets got out, and the book was there when the committee hearing resumed.

What delighted Pentagon subordinates, however, was that this was exactly the kind of forgetfulness for which they can be severely punished. And for the big boss to make a slip of this kind gives them an alibi if they get called down for failure to lock a file drawer at night.

In fact, on March 26, Secretary Wilson had sent a special memorandum to all the three service secretaries, the joint chiefs of staff, the chairmen of all Pentagon boards, committees and councils. The subject was: "Security Violations in the Department of Defense." The memo began:

"I am deeply concerned over the number of security violations occurring recently within the Department of Defense."

It concluded with a call for prompt and adequate disciplinary action, regardless of rank or position:

"Disciplinary action should include, in the case of military personnel, trial by court-martial, or in the case of civilian personnel, prosecution under Title 18, U. S. Code . . . Offenses by civilian employes of the Department of Defense should also be carefully reviewed for the applicability of Public Law 733 . . . pertaining to security risks."

(Signed) C. E. Wilson.

Explains High Taxes

Miami, Fla., June 3 (AP)—Unification of services is the most effective method now available for reducing municipal expenditures, Robert P. Aex city manager of Newburgh, N. Y., said yesterday. He told the 47th annual convention of the Municipal Finance Officers Association that "local government has gone merrily on its way duplicating services until the cost of local government has gone beyond all previous highs." He said suburbs around cities were receiving many new residents who demanded new schools, new sewers, new water systems, roads and garbage collection. The result was high per capita taxes in the suburbs. "Unification of services between a city and its surrounding suburbs is now looked upon as the way to get those services at wholesale instead of retail," he said.

United States Congress Is No Rubber Stamp in Matters of Foreign Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 3—Judging by letters and comments from different parts of the country, including some press and radio interpretations, there are many persons in America who do not know what the Constitution of the United States really provides concerning the conduct of foreign affairs. Erroneous concepts seem to prevail that the President is a kind of dictator or absolute monarch in this field and that the Congress has no right to question but must serve only as a rubber stamp to validate any action he may decide to take with reference to foreign nations.

Such mistaken impressions have been given wide currency in connection with the action last week of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which, by a vote of 20 to 4, added a provision to the State Department's appropriation bill declaring that no funds shall be furnished for the support of the United Nations organization if Red China is admitted to the Security Council.

The Senate committee may have been unwise in this step or its action may have been premature or it may even have been a hasty prejudgment of what the UN may do about Red China, but it is no infringement on the powers of the executive nor is it outside the prerogatives of Congress to refuse to appropriate money for an international purpose if it so desires.

In his criticism of the American constitution, Clement Attlee, former prime minister of Great Britain, was essentially right—though it was indiscreet for him to say what he did at the moment—when he declared that, in any meeting with Malenkov, the American President would have no authority to commit this country to such undertakings as might be agreed upon by the British and French premiers. For that is a fundamental difference between America's system of government and the parliamentary system prevailing in Britain and France. Many persons in this country, including this correspondent, have urged that a parliamentary system, which works so well in Canada, be adopted by the United States so that the executive and the legislative would stand or fall together in elections which could be called at any time there was a governmental disagreement. This, of course, would require a change in the constitution, and Mr. Attlee may be forgiven for an academic discussion on the merits of the American system, because he is so well sold on his own system.

But what Mr. Attlee can't be forgiven is his proposal that Red China be admitted to the UN as soon as an armistice is signed in Korea. It was this—to which Prime Minister Churchill had nodded his agreement — that touched off for a brief time a serious cleavage between the President and Congress, now happily reconciled. Something of the same kind happened when President Wilson went to Paris to help establish the League of Nations. In the weeks just after the armistice of November 11, 1918, which ended World War 1, a round-robin statement signed by a majority of the Senate—Republicans and Democrats — warned the President that, if he signed the treaty at Paris without certain reservations, the Senate would not ratify. And in the end the Senate did block the ratification of a treaty which the President signed, and the whole course of history was changed. The Senate was wrong in its view of world policy, but it was well within its constitutional rights in what it did.

There are some on Capitol Hill who think the so-called "rider" which the Senate committee adopted by such an overwhelming vote was unnecessary anyway, because the President could direct our representative at the UN Security Council to exercise a veto against admitting Red China. But back of this is a legal controversy as to whether the acceptance or rejection of credentials to determine which government can take the seat of a country like China, already a member of the UN, is a "procedural question" or subject to veto. Former Secretary of State Acheson took the view it was "procedural" and could be decided by a majority on the council. Though an argument can be made that the charter calls for a seat for "the Republic of China" and that a Communist-controlled government is not a republic, members of Congress are playing it safe by issuing the warning to both the President and our allies concerning the American attitude toward the admission of Red China. It is an academic question really because Congress could act later, if and when it became clear that such admission was imminent.

President Eisenhower's statement that he would approve an amendment to the pending appropriation bill by Congress, expressing American opposition to the admission of Red China—eliminating all reference to a reprisal, such as withholding funds if the UN does admit Red China—is a satisfactory solution and notifies the free world of America's attitude—the executive and legislative—against the admission of Red China to the UN at least as long as the Communist regime in Peiping is allied with Moscow.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

A fellow I know used to work on the Pullmans and got some assignments that a fan or celebrity-chaser would deem very select—such as Franklin D. Roosevelt quite a few times and Bubblehead Wallace and Harold Ickes.

But my friend, a colored man, is a stand-pat Republican, the more so since that time back around 1935 when, at the end of a political inspection trip of about 10 days, bubblehead handed him 50 cents and Ickes topped that by only two-bits.

He is, in fact, a reactionary.

They wandered all over the dust-bowl this trip, stretching the borders of the bowl to embrace county seats where Moose-jaw thought the natives needed a dose of that "you know, and I know" routine and Bubbles and Ickes each had a drawing room, both in the same car, at government expense, of course.

Bubbles and Ickes were scuffling over the Bureau of Forestry, one trying to take it away from the other but I don't rightly remember who from whom and neither does my friend, and it isn't worth the bother of looking up.

They were watching each other with morbid suspicion all the way because all those noble friends of the common man had a covetous, and I am inconsolable to have to add, even a larcenous instinct in such matters and would pull a chair out from under a brother in the sacred bond of democracy with the rapscallion glee of a blue-jaw comic in the classics of that robust art-form known as burlesque or louse-opera on the old western wheel. They had coppered one another's stolen minutes with the boss in his private car, which in those days was just a family voiture, giving way, however, to a Hitlerized job.

This rolling fortress is now the official White House car, and a commentary on the attitude of the Roosevelt-Truman administrations toward the people who were supposed to love their leaders. So much of the propaganda discharged by both of these mountebanks dealt with fear, as in the fear of fear and the meaningless cliche, freedom from fear, that they talked themselves into a perpetual quaking funk and surrounded themselves with ranks of gun toters in mufti and uniform and, in Roosevelt's case, with a special regiment of foot, all six feet tall or higher.

Wallace dropped off somewhere in Iowa and Ickes, having outlasted him, flipped his Keister over in Illinois but whether the little miser got in the last and decisive word with Roosevelt I am afraid you will have to ask someone who makes a specialty of those "not many people know it but insiders are laughing—" paragraphs.

At any rate, Ickes was laughing on that last stretch of his taunting my friend about his morose and brooding frame of mind over that four-bit piece for fetching and doing over so many miles of hot and gritty going in the dead of summer. Mr. Ickes' character, though it had jelled at birth into the nearest human approach to that of a scorpion, was not yet as well known and widely abhorred as it came to be when the news broke that he had charged off as deductible expenses on his rich wife's estate, to which he was sole legatee, the cost of her shroud and the modest posies which he sent in token of his grief.

My friend let his Republican money-lust delude him into expectations which, a few hours later, crashed with a tinkle of shattered ideals. The boss-almoner of the first New Deal topped Bubblehead by only 25 cents and with a final, mocking leer at my friend's distress at Henry's benevolence, was off and away.

My friend drew the leader's car on a couple of trips to Hyde Park and his tip was uniformly $2.50 each way from the fuehrer and usually, nothing from the others in the circle who would be either family or bleeding-hearts and thus, as we know, unwilling to degrade the colored people by largesse when opportunity was what they craved. On some of those excursions the car would lie up for three or four days and my friend finally had to signify in terms incapable of any other meaning that he could not afford to waste his time on that nickel-bender back at the rear end.

MOSCOW MAKES PLAIN ITS AIM

Russian reaction to the planned Big Three conference at Bermuda, plus rejection of renewed parleys on the Austrian treaty, speaks volumes about the real motives behind the Kremlin's "peace offensive."

The most significant thing Moscow said of the Big Three meeting was the charge that Britain, France and the United States intended to "gang up" on the Soviet Union by reaching a common viewpoint before entering into negotiations with the East.

The Reds said in so many words that they would be disinclined to take part in a four-power meeting unless the western participants approached it as independent nations prepared to express totally individual viewpoints.

This is the conclusive proof, if it were needed, that the Russian goal in the "peace offensive" is disruptive, not constructive.

It is a fundamental of Soviet thinking that the western capitalist powers inevitably will contribute to their own final downfall and the triumph of communism by quarreling seriously among themselves.

Russian strategy always is designed to encourage and exploit any conflicts that develop in the West. Differences, of course, are inescapable among free-thinking men of widely varied backgrounds and problems.

Recognizing this, the Kremlin framed the "peace" approach in considerable part to take advantage of the fact that Britain and France are less exacting than America in attaching conditions to any conference on a general world settlement.

The scheme has worked well. Prime Minister Churchill called for a Big Four meeting, and the French seconded him. Meanwhile, we hung back, demanding signs of good faith.

What Moscow wants, naturally, is to get the three western powers around the table and then play upon these different attitudes. The hope would be to open gaping holes in the unity of the West.

That is why the Kremlin is angered at the prospect of a preliminary western conference in which the three democratic nations would patch up some of their recent differences and develop a common policy to present to the Soviet Union.

Any such solid front would automatically defeat one of Russia's prime reasons for seeking a conference. And it would leave Russia exposed once more as a nation which does not sincerely desire peace, but is instead engaged in a baffling new kind of warfare that embraces every phase of human activity.

Now we are told that bees carry water as well as honey. Perhaps in time someone will prove that those stories about the industrious bee are all wet.

STILL NO DEEDS

Since the death of Stalin the Russians have demonstrated a willingness to talk about peace and cooperation in general terms. But when it comes to discussing specific issues and working out solutions the Kremlin has not been so eager.

In his foreign policy address a month ago President Eisenhower called on the Russian leaders to back up their talk of peace with peaceful deeds. He said that one way Russian could prove its sincerity would be by reaching an agreement with the West on the long delayed Austrian peace treaty. The Russians replied with more soft words. A bid was sent to the Kremlin to participate in a meeting of deputy foreign ministers of the Big Four to work out such a treaty. The Russians politely but definitely rejected the idea.

The Russian peace offensive is no longer new. Yet men continue to die in Korea and Indo-China. Austria is still without a peace treaty and there is no sign that it will get one soon. Peaceful talk is fine. It is good to hear calm words from Moscow in place of the usual insults and invective. But words without deeds are hollow and meaningless.

Unless Russia takes some concrete action to prove its sincerity the West may be excused for believing that all this talk of peace is merely another strategem of the Cold War.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE ESSENCE OF THE PROBLEM

It took a man from Hollywood, Robert Rossen, to state a case concisely and sharply. In sworn testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, he said:

". . . I don't think, after two years of thinking, that any one individual can even indulge himself in the luxury of individual morality or pit it against what I feel today very strongly is the security and safety of this nation.

"This is a government, a democracy, of laws and not of men; and the law says that this Congress or this committee of this Congress has a right to inquire into matters affecting the security of this United States of America.

"It's my duty and my right to appear here today, after much thinking, and give you whatever information I have. . . ."

In 1951, this same Robert Rosen took refuge under the Fifth Amendment. He merely stated then that he was no longer a Communist, but he would go no further. However, he reached a point in his relations with his own country and with his conscience that left him no alternative but to straighten himself out.

Sometimes it is very tough for a man to tell all that he knows. Sometimes it is even harder for a man to give names of colleagues or to denounce what he himself did or what he did in common with others. Often it involves the deepest emotions, pride, personal loyalty, even generosity. Of this Rosen said in a colloquy:

"Mr. Travenner. The committee may like to know why you have changed your mind about that.

"Mr. Rossen. Well, arriving at a decision like this takes a long time. I'd like to sort of compare it to arriving at a decision to leaving the Communist Party. That takes a long time. . . . To arrive at the decision which makes me come here today took me several years."

Rossen's testimony is the most integrated and the most informative of any that has come from the Hollywood group. This man has a philosophic mind and is capable of profound analysis. At one point, he pictures a young man who believed that his world had fallen apart:

". . . I felt that I was looking—for new horizons, a new kind of society, something I could believe in and become a part of, something in—well, in a sense I felt I wanted to attach myself to history; I wanted to be a part of that historical movement, and it seemed to me at the time the Communist Party offered, as far as I was concerned, the only way that could be effective."

We all wonder why so many smart young men turned to this movement. Rossen was not merely asking for clearance. He was explaining—he was telling:

"Mr. Clardy. Isn't that one of the reasons why we are afflicted as we are today, because there is not that drive that should come from the inner man to lead us into religion?

"Mr. Rossen. Well, I don't know. I think you can find it in many different ways, and certainly anything that tends toward the realization of the inner man, on any level . . . is a good thing; but certainly in the days that I can remember I think most of the intellectual life of the country was, in a sense, anti-religious, or atheist. . . .

"Values had broken down. This is a real fact. There weren't any values, and the Communist Party seemed to be at a place that had the values. Its people were the most dedicated. It worked the hardest, and it was interested in cultural movements. It was interested in anything you were interested in. Therefore, you felt this was the only place you could possibly go."

This was so true in many countries after World War 1. It was what turned Italian youth toward Mussolini and German youth toward Hitler. It appeared in China in the Students Movement and in Japan in the upsurge of nationalistic imperialism. Youth reaches for the stars and when the traditional ideals seem to fade away, they seek unorthodox ideals. Youth cannot live without faith and sacrifice.

Therefore, so many turn to new gods and when they discover that the new gods are only clay monkeys, they may return to the faiths of their fathers. And for some, such as Alger Hiss, it may even be too late.

It is only natural that parents should try to use a cough mixture containing a quieting drug but this is one time that a quieting drug should not be used as nature will loosen the mucus and coughing enables the child to cough up the mucus and thus open up more breathing space.

In 1950, under the same circumstances, President Truman refused to go along with the stunt. When the other piano player reached a point where Truman was supposed to yell, there was just dead silence.

Sergeant Saw Stars

Movie Actor George Murphy, who was toastmaster for the photographers' dinner, added two more stories to the growing list of yarns about Ike during World War 2.

The first was about the time Ike got caught in a heavy rain near an air force base. He had his raincoat on and he ducked into a supply shack. Ike's insignia was covered and the typical supply sergeant in charge began giving loud directions about not getting the floor wet.

When Ike finally took off his raincoat and exposed his five stars, the surprised sergeant exclaimed in horror: "Holy mackerel, it's the Milky Way."

Saddened Lieutenant

Murphy's second story concerned General Eisenhower's late arrival at an army base. He had been expected early in the morning and the second lieutenant in charge of greeting him had been checking testily every few minutes with the sergeant at the gate.

When Ike finally arrived, the sergeant poked his head in the car and inquired, "Are you General Eisenhower?"

When the general said he was, the sergeant told him: "Boy, are you going to catch it from the lieutenant for being late!"

Braverman to Guggenheim

Prize crack of the week was made by Margaret Truman's sometime boy friend, Marvin Braverman, to Col. Robert Guggenheim. For months every society column in town has had the wealthy Republican angel nominated as ambassador to this country or that, without anything ever happening.

Latest word on the party circuit is that Colonel Guggenheim has finally been cleared and will soon be named envoy to Portugal. Anyway, after hearing this rumor, Braverman commented: "If they don't name you soon, Bob, I'd resign."

Brown Bess

Incidentally, Marvin Braverman saw Margaret Truman when she made an unheralded and almost unnoticed visit to Washington the other day. When he complimented her on her beautiful suntan, Miss Truman told him that even her mother had gone in for suntanning now, and had the color to prove it.

Margaret Barney for Secretary

Mum's still the word from the White House on who will finally be named social secretary for the First Lady. Friends of Margaret Barney are giving her a big boost for the appointment, claiming she's a natural for the job.

During the years that she was social secretary for the fabulous Eleanor Patterson, Miss Barney handled the millionaire publisher's entertaining in her Washington mansion. She was also whisked off to manage parties at any one of Sissy Patterson's four other places—on Long Island, in Florida, a country place in Maryland and a ranch in Wyoming.

After Mrs. Patterson's death, Margaret Barney was approached by a writer for information on her boss' life. The deal would have netted her plenty, but Miss Barney refused to consider it. That's the final test for a good social secretary.

Brownell's Light Side

Attorney General Herbert Brownell confessed in a recent speech that coming into the Department of Justice was something of an unsettling experience.

"I felt," he said, "much like the man who fell out of a fourth-story window. A crowd gathered and a policeman pushed his way through it to demand, 'What's going on here?' The poor injured man on the sidewalk raised his head and replied, 'I dunno, I just got here myself.'"

Whether the taxpayers would get their money's worth from the Republican administration, the attorney general said he would leave to them.

"So even if you feel we are short-changing the taxpayers," said Mr. Brownell, "I hope you will chalk it up to a difference of opinion and at least not ascribe to us the dubious ethics of that movie cashier who, when asked what he did when a customer forgets his change, replied: 'I knock on the window with a dollar bill.'"

Nothing happened. The book wasn't opened, no secrets got out, and the book was there when the committee hearing resumed.

What delighted Pentagon subordinates, however, was that this was exactly the kind of forgetfulness for which they can be severely punished. And for the big boss to make a slip of this kind gives them an alibi if they get called down for failure to lock a file drawer at night.

In fact, on March 26, Secretary Wilson had sent a special memorandum to all the three service secretaries, the joint chiefs of staff, the chairmen of all Pentagon boards, committees and councils. The subject was: "Security Violations in the Department of Defense." The memo began:

"I am deeply concerned over the number of security violations occurring recently within the Department of Defense."

It concluded with a call for prompt and adequate disciplinary action, regardless of rank or position:

"Disciplinary action should include, in the case of military personnel, trial by court-martial, or in the case of civilian personnel, prosecution under Title 18, U. S. Code . . . Offenses by civilian employes of the Department of Defense should also be carefully reviewed for the applicability of Public Law 733 . . . pertaining to security risks."

(Signed) C. E. Wilson.

Explains High Taxes

Miami, Fla., June 3 (AP)—Unification of services is the most effective method now available for reducing municipal expenditures, Robert P. Aex city manager of Newburgh, N. Y., said yesterday. He told the 47th annual convention of the Municipal Finance Officers Association that "local government has gone merrily on its way duplicating services until the cost of local government has gone beyond all previous highs." He said suburbs around cities were receiving many new residents who demanded new schools, new sewers, new water systems, roads and garbage collection. The result was high per capita taxes in the suburbs. "Unification of services between a city and its surrounding suburbs is now looked upon as the way to get those services at wholesale instead of retail," he said.

United States Congress Is No Rubber Stamp in Matters of Foreign Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 3—Judging by letters and comments from different parts of the country, including some press and radio interpretations, there are many persons in America who do not know what the Constitution of the United States really provides concerning the conduct of foreign affairs. Erroneous concepts seem to prevail that the President is a kind of dictator or absolute monarch in this field and that the Congress has no right to question but must serve only as a rubber stamp to validate any action he may decide to take with reference to foreign nations.

Such mistaken impressions have been given wide currency in connection with the action last week of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which, by a vote of 20 to 4, added a provision to the State Department's appropriation bill declaring that no funds shall be furnished for the support of the United Nations organization if Red China is admitted to the Security Council.

The Senate committee may have been unwise in this step or its action may have been premature or it may even have been a hasty prejudgment of what the UN may do about Red China, but it is no infringement on the powers of the executive nor is it outside the prerogatives of Congress to refuse to appropriate money for an international purpose if it so desires.

In his criticism of the American constitution, Clement Attlee, former prime minister of Great Britain, was essentially right—though it was indiscreet for him to say what he did at the moment—when he declared that, in any meeting with Malenkov, the American President would have no authority to commit this country to such undertakings as might be agreed upon by the British and French premiers. For that is a fundamental difference between America's system of government and the parliamentary system prevailing in Britain and France. Many persons in this country, including this correspondent, have urged that a parliamentary system, which works so well in Canada, be adopted by the United States so that the executive and the legislative would stand or fall together in elections which could be called at any time there was a governmental disagreement. This, of course, would require a change in the constitution, and Mr. Attlee may be forgiven for an academic discussion on the merits of the American system, because he is so well sold on his own system.

But what Mr. Attlee can't be forgiven is his proposal that Red China be admitted to the UN as soon as an armistice is signed in Korea. It was this—to which Prime Minister Churchill had nodded his agreement — that touched off for a brief time a serious cleavage between the President and Congress, now happily reconciled. Something of the same kind happened when President Wilson went to Paris to help establish the League of Nations. In the weeks just after the armistice of November 11, 1918, which ended World War 1, a round-robin statement signed by a majority of the Senate—Republicans and Democrats — warned the President that, if he signed the treaty at Paris without certain reservations, the Senate would not ratify. And in the end the Senate did block the ratification of a treaty which the President signed, and the whole course of history was changed. The Senate was wrong in its view of world policy, but it was well within its constitutional rights in what it did.

There are some on Capitol Hill who think the so-called "rider" which the Senate committee adopted by such an overwhelming vote was unnecessary anyway, because the President could direct our representative at the UN Security Council to exercise a veto against admitting Red China. But back of this is a legal controversy as to whether the acceptance or rejection of credentials to determine which government can take the seat of a country like China, already a member of the UN, is a "procedural question" or subject to veto. Former Secretary of State Acheson took the view it was "procedural" and could be decided by a majority on the council. Though an argument can be made that the charter calls for a seat for "the Republic of China" and that a Communist-controlled government is not a republic, members of Congress are playing it safe by issuing the warning to both the President and our allies concerning the American attitude toward the admission of Red China. It is an academic question really because Congress could act later, if and when it became clear that such admission was imminent.

President Eisenhower's statement that he would approve an amendment to the pending appropriation bill by Congress, expressing American opposition to the admission of Red China—eliminating all reference to a reprisal, such as withholding funds if the UN does admit Red China—is a satisfactory solution and notifies the free world of America's attitude—the executive and legislative—against the admission of Red China to the UN at least as long as the Communist regime in Peiping is allied with Moscow.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

A fellow I know used to work on the Pullmans and got some assignments that a fan or celebrity-chaser would deem very select—such as Franklin D. Roosevelt quite a few times and Bubblehead Wallace and Harold Ickes.

But my friend, a colored man, is a stand-pat Republican, the more so since that time back around 1935 when, at the end of a political inspection trip of about 10 days, bubblehead handed him 50 cents and Ickes topped that by only two-bits.

He is, in fact, a reactionary.

They wandered all over the dust-bowl this trip, stretching the borders of the bowl to embrace county seats where Moose-jaw thought the natives needed a dose of that "you know, and I know" routine and Bubbles and Ickes each had a drawing room, both in the same car, at government expense, of course.

Bubbles and Ickes were scuffling over the Bureau of Forestry, one trying to take it away from the other but I don't rightly remember who from whom and neither does my friend, and it isn't worth the bother of looking up.

They were watching each other with morbid suspicion all the way because all those noble friends of the common man had a covetous, and I am inconsolable to have to add, even a larcenous instinct in such matters and would pull a chair out from under a brother in the sacred bond of democracy with the rapscallion glee of a blue-jaw comic in the classics of that robust art-form known as burlesque or louse-opera on the old western wheel. They had coppered one another's stolen minutes with the boss in his private car, which in those days was just a family voiture, giving way, however, to a Hitlerized job.

This rolling fortress is now the official White House car, and a commentary on the attitude of the Roosevelt-Truman administrations toward the people who were supposed to love their leaders. So much of the propaganda discharged by both of these montebanks dealt with fear, as in the fear of fear and the meaningless cliche, freedom from fear, that they talked themselves into a perpetual quaking funk and surrounded themselves with ranks of gun toters in mufti and uniform and, in Roosevelt's case, with a special regiment of foot, all six feet tall or higher.

Wallace dropped off somewhere in Iowa and Ickes, having outlasted him, flipped his Keister over in Illinois but whether the little miser got in the last and decisive word with Roosevelt I am afraid you will have to ask someone who makes a specialty of those "not many people know it but insiders are laughing—" paragraphs.

At any rate, Ickes was laughing on that last stretch of his taunting my friend about his morose and brooding frame of mind over that four-bit piece for fetching and doing over so many miles of hot and gritty going in the dead of summer. Mr. Ickes' character, though it had jelled at birth into the nearest human approach to that of a scorpion, was not yet as well known and widely abhorred as it came to be when the news broke that he had charged off as deductible expenses on his rich wife's estate, to which he was sole legatee, the cost of her shroud and the modest posies which he sent in token of his grief.

My friend let his Republican money-lust delude him into expectations which, a few hours later, crashed with a tinkle of shattered ideals. The boss-almoner of the first New Deal topped Bubblehead by only 25 cents and with a final, mocking leer at my friend's distress at Henry's benevolence, was off and away.

My friend drew the leader's car on a couple of trips to Hyde Park and his tip was uniformly $2.50 each way from the fuehrer and usually, nothing from the others in the circle who would be either family or bleeding-hearts and thus, as we know, unwilling to degrade the colored people by largesse when opportunity was what they craved. On some of those excursions the car would lie up for three or four days and my friend finally had to signify in terms incapable of any other meaning that he could not afford to waste his time on that nickel-bender back at the rear end.

Guests of the club were Marni Paley, valedictorian, and Shirley Craig, salutatorian, of the Kingston High School graduating class, and Theron Culver, acting principal of the high school.

Culver, who was introduced by Roland Augustine, program chairman for the month, revealed that Miss Paley's average of 95.5 was the fourth highest attained by a high school students here since 1928. Both girls spoke briefly about their future plans, both remarked that they had received their elementary education in small, rural schools, and both paid tribute to the high school staff and activities. Miss Paley, one of the limited number of girls to be accepted by Massachusetts Institute of Technology, plans to enter research work, while Miss Craig will join the staff of the Rondout National Bank.

The club presented gifts of bookends to each girl, the presentation being made by Augustine.

Laud Ike's Program

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's order setting up machinery for a searching loyalty check of the 3,400 U. S. citizens employed by the United Nations drew applause today from Republicans and Democrats on Capitol Hill. Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said "this should have been done years ago." Ferguson conducted public hearings for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee which reported widescale Communist infiltration of this country's staff at UN. If there had been such a program, he added, the staff would not have been found "honeycombed with those who refused to testify whether they were Communists at the time, or had been previously."

Contents of Red Letter Are Secret

Munsan, June 3 (AP)—The Communists handed the allies a letter relating to the Korean armistice talks at a two-minute meeting of liaison officers today. The UN command said its contents would remain secret.

An official spokesman said, however, a full-scale negotiating session will be held on schedule at 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. EST Wednesday) after a nine-day recess.

The Reds were expected to answer the latest allied proposal for breaking the prisoner exchange deadlock, last major barrier to a Korean truce.

Barring a last minute change, Thursday's truce session will be secret.

Asks for Secrecy

The UN command asked for secrecy, but the Communists reserved the right to ask at any time that the sessions be made public.

The disposition of 48,500 allied captives who refuse to return to communism is the last big road block to a cease-fire in the nearly three-year-old war.

The UN command offered its proposal in a closed door session May 25 and the contents never have been officially disclosed. South Korean sources have divulged most of the plan, however.

The talks then were recessed, first at allied request, then at Red request—indicating the Communists have given the offer serious study.

Communist radio stations—usually a sounding board for official policy—have been unusually quiet throughout the recess, giving no hint what the Red position might be.

The drawn-out talks resume amid apparently easing tensions between the UN and South Korea, which has bitterly denounced the allied offer as a "sellout."

South Korea, after boycotting the May 25 session, indicated a delegate will attend Thursday's meeting in Panmunjom.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee, after disclosing he received a message from U. S. President Eisenhower, told newsmen Tuesday he will co-operate with the U. S. "at any cost."

Raps Red Teachers

New York, June 3 (AP)—President Grayson Kirk of Columbia University says any teacher who joins a totalitarian group has no right to remain on a college faculty. He adds that "no individual and no group outside the university can be allowed to dictate who shall teach or what shall be taught." Kirk addressed 6,000 Columbia graduates at commencement exercises yesterday following his formal installation as 14th Columbia president, succeeding President Eisenhower.

Without Opposition

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's choices for the nation's top military assignments have all been confirmed by the Senate, without opposition. The Senate yesterday approved Adm. Arthur W. Radford to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, chief of staff of the army; Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of staff of the air force.

Pier Fire Burns On

Boston, June 3 (AP)—A stubborn pier fire on the Charlestown waterfront burned on today after firefighters halted its spread during a night battle. Fire department officials believed it would be two days before the last of the slow-burning flames under the pier and in cargo would be extinguished. Several injured firefighters were given hospital treatment and discharged.

Wintry Touch

London, June 3 (AP)—A spring cold snap swept western Europe today, bringing heavy snow falls in the Alps and chilling rains elsewhere. Britain had a repeat this morning of the cold damp weather that brought discomfort to the millions who watched Queen Elizabeth's Coronation procession yesterday.

Kate Walton Field House and he felt it would not cost too much to make the change.

Herzog expressed a like sentiment, suggesting that a bronze placque would probably cost several hundred dollars, perhaps no more would be involved in changing the present sign.

The board adopted a motion by Mrs. Connelly that any rule or regulation of the board should be incorporated into a readily accessible record for the benefit of present and future members of the board. No such compilation exists at present.

Must Watch Expenditures

Laidlaw told the board it was running "very, very close" financially and that expenditures had to be watched very carefully during the current month in order to avoid a deficit.

He said there was $121,900 in actual cash as of June 2 and that the payroll would run $110,000, to which must be added insurance and other miscellaneous items.

He read to the board a list of schools all over the state which had found it necessary to curtail activities and services, including such items as school supplies, textbook requisitions, adult education, music, art, athletics, etc. He said it was important for the board to maintain a "cushion" in its budget and not to find itself in a position in which activities and services would have to be curtailed.

Rowland announced that the next meeting of the board would be held Thursday, June 25, and that the annual meeting would be held Thursday, July 2.

The school calendar for 1953-54, listing 196 days in session, of which five were legal holidays and seven others were days school would not be in session, was adopted by the board.

School will open Tuesday, Sept. 8, and will close Friday, June 25. Legal holidays will be Columbus Day, Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, Washington's birthday and Memorial Day. Other days school will not be in session were listed as Labor Day, Teachers' conference SE Zone, day after Thanksgiving, mid-term conference (two days) and days prior to Easter Sunday (two days).

Receives Traffic Report

The board took cognizance of a letter from Hugh Elwyn, president of the P-TA of the George Washington School, in which he submitted a report of the school traffic committee adopted unanimously by the P-TA.

The report signed by N. Jansen Fowler, chairman, copies of which were sent by the P-TA to the mayor, superintendent of the Board of Public Works and Common Council, pointed out that the speed of vehicles passing the school had been clocked and found to be in excess of the speed limit of 10 miles per hour. The majority were reported in excess of 15 miles per hour, with many exceeding 20 and even 25 miles per hour, a number of the offenders being parents bringing their children to school. Parents also park in prohibited areas in the vicinity of the school, the report stated.

The report recommended that the speed limit be changed from 10 to 15 miles per hour to conform with state law and that the city hire a special policeman for duty at the school. Until such a policeman were provided, the report stated, it was deemed advisable to have a blinker erected at the Marius street crossing of Washington avenue. The report also asked Council for a no parking zone in the school neighborhood from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

A letter from Joseph M. Boswell submitting his resignation as science teacher was approved by the board. It also received and filed a letter from Nicholas Cosmos expressing the appreciation of the Kingston Boy's Club for use of the George Washington school.

$300 Raised for Deed

The board received and filed a letter from Harry Rigby expressing appreciation for the response to a recent appeal for funds with which to purchase the historic Chambers deed. He pointed out in the letter that the appeal in the public schools had resulted in the collection of approximately $300 "indicating a love and respect for the community."

A letter from Ruth M. Betts submitting her resignation as assistant librarian was approved by the board.

Dan H. Allen, a graduate of Kingston High School with a BS degree from Oswego State Teachers College, three years in the army and four years teaching experience, was given a probationary appointment as a teacher in the vocational school at a salary of $3,550 effective in September.

Murray Kerner, with AB and MA degrees from New York University and 11 years experience as a teacher of physically and mentally handicapped children, was given probationary appointment as a special class teacher at a salary of $4,200 effective in September.

Marion E. F. Van Winkle, with a BS degree from New York University in physical education, certification in elementary education and four years teaching experience, was given probationary appointment as a teacher in the elementary schools at a salary of $3,250 effective in September.

Contracts Awarded

The following contracts were awarded: Art supplies, J. L. Hammett and Co., $7,840; 389 desks, American Seating Company, $5,597.35; 1,250 master combination locks, $1,602.50, Valeo's Hardware Co.; five legal size files and 10 letter size files, William O'Reilly, Inc., $900; paint for the field house, Central Hudson Paint and Wallpaper Co.

The board also approved the purchase of a Monroe calculator for use in the high school commercial department at a cost of $518.50.

Purchase of 43 typewriters was authorized by the board for which 43 typewriters now in use at the high school are to be traded in. Figuring the reduction for trade-ins the total expenditure comes to $3,075. It is the policy of the board to turn in old typewriters every three years and purchase new ones, from local dealers if possible.

Council Is Asked

the Parent-Teacher Association of the George Washington School, asked among other proposals, that the speed limit be changed from 10 to 15 miles an hour on streets near the school.

Traffic Proposals

The new traffic proposals were backed by a resolution offered by Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th ward, and seconded by Robert C. Cullum, 12th ward. It asked that full consideration be given the proposals and Alderman-at-Large Kelly referred it to the traffic committee, police chief, mayor and other officials suggested in the survey report.

The Parent-Teacher Association's committee reported it had studied conditions at the school entrance with emphasis on the Washington avenue side and found that "practically all vehicles exceeded the 10-mile-an-hour speed limit, and the majority were in excess of 15 miles an hour." Many were above 20 miles an hour and several over 25 miles an hour, the report said.

Parents Violate Law

Several of those who broke the speed limit, the report said, were persons bringing their own children to school.

It was found that more than 200 children cross the Marius street-Washington avenue intersection, and that some parents had been stopping cars in the "no-parking" areas. This practice, it said, blocks the vision of children crossing the street.

Six Recommendations

The six recommendations of the committee were: 1.—Change from 10 to 15 miles an hour the speed limit near the school to conform with the state regulation. 2.—That signs be changed to cover the change and placed at the bottom of the silent policemen as well as at the ends of the zones.

3.—That the city hire a special policeman for duty at Marius street and Washington avenue, and that until this is arranged that a blinker light be placed over the intersection.

4.—That a no parking zone be created on the southwest side of Washington avenue and maintained from Monday through Friday from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.

5.—That until a special policemen is assigned to Washington avenue and Marius street, that the police department arrange to patrol the area before and after school hours.

6.—That a special policeman be stationed on the Wall street side and that the children be instructed to cross at the Henry street intersection where the officer is stationed.

Routes Approved

On recommendation of its railroad and bus committee the council granted the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., its approval to transfer operation consent now held by the Woodstock-Kingston Bus Corp., to the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., "for certain motor bus routes in the city."

The application explained that on last May 22, the Woodstock-Kingston Bus Corp., entered into contract with the petitioner, the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., to sell the former's bus line.

Approval of the transfer of title and rights, the application said, must be given by the Common Council, the town boards of Hurley and Woodstock and the New York State Public Service Commission. N. LeVan Haver was the attorney for the petitioner.

The application listed I. Levan Merrihew as president, and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, as treasurer and secretary of the Woodstock-Kingston Bus Corp., and Merrihew as president, Mildred Merrihew as secretary, and Senator Wicks as treasurer of the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp.

Kelly Lauds Schechter

Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter's resignation was read and filed. He explained that he will move this month into the Third ward. He said it was an "honor and a privilege" to serve in the council and he treasures the "friendship and cooperation" he has found among the aldermen regardless of party affiliations.

Alderman-at-large Kelly said it had been a pleasure to have Alderman Schechter in the council. "He has been a good legislator and has served the people of his ward well. I hope he finds a lot of success and pleasure in his new home."

One-Way Streets

The council adopted proposals of its traffic committee to make Hanratty street one-way from Delaware avenue to Murray street, to prohibit parking on the left side, and to make Van Deusen street one-way from Broadway to Delmont street.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was granted permission to attend the State Fire Chiefs' Convention at Watertown June 14, 15 and 16, and City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer was authorized to attend the annual State Conference of Mayors and City Clerks at Long Beach, L. I., June 17 to 19.

The mayor's letter announcing appointment of former Alderman Paul J. Schatzel to the water board, was read and filed, and recalling that he had served well in the council, Alderman-at-large Kelly, said, "I think he'll make a good member of the water board."

Resolution on Park

Among resolutions was another by Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel asking action to prevent use of cars "anywhere in the play area of Hutton Park." Some persons have been using the play area as a speedway, he said, and he called attention to a previous resolution mentioning this. He asked that the public works department be directed to seal the area and the signs be placed at the accesses to prohibit vehicles entering.

Alderman-at-large Kelly referred it to the traffic committee, BPW and police chief.

Ask Repairs

Alderman Abram D. Relyea asked that the public works department fill holes in Pine street at Wilbur avenue, Greenkill avenue between the Boulevard and Marius street, Glen street near the pump house, Marius street, South Washington avenue, Pettit avenue, Klingburg avenue, Henry street between Clinton avenue and Wall street, and Oak street.

Alderman Samuel J. Perry asked for a full-stop sign at Walnut and Abruyn streets, and at Union and Tompkins streets. Alderman Robert Cullum asked for the repair of Granite Court, Merritt avenue, Grand View avenue, Noone's Lane, Johnston avenue, and upper Pearl street. Radel asked for an ordinance restricting parking to an hour in front of the office of Dr. Samuel Z. Maroon, 435 Broadway.

Kingston Trust

The Kingston Trust Company's Central Branch opened for business March 15, 1920. The first account opened was that of Dr. and Mrs. S. T. Levitas. Second and third accounts were those of William O'Reilly and M. C. Crosby.

The Kingston Trust Company itself was organized in 1919, as successor of the Kingston National Bank, which was in its turn successor of The Kingston Bank. Officers in 1919 were William J. Turck, president; C. R. O'Connor, vice president; A. A. Davis, secretary-treasurer, and J. Jenkin, council.

The following year, when the new branch office opened at 518 Broadway, Philip Elting, Republican leader later to become Collector of the Port of New York, became vice president, the other officers remaining the same. Gordon A. Craig and Ernest LeFever later became assistant treasurers.

Oldest Accounts

The Trust Company's second annual dinner for its directors, officers and employes, was a memorable affair, held March 27, 1922, at the Eagle Hotel. Two depositors of longest standing were present, Judge A. T. Clearwater and Major James H. Everett, who opened accounts in 1866 and 1867 in The Kingston Bank, predecessor of the Trust Company. Cornelius S. Treadwell was chairman of arrangements and Philip Elting was toastmaster. Speakers included such outstanding bankers as Willis G. Nash, vice president of Irving National Bank of New York; Francis H. Sisson, vice president of Guaranty Trust Company, New York; and Pierre Jay, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

In July, 1922, deposits at the Central Branch passed the one million dollar mark.

On Wednesday, Jan. 21, 1925, Elting was elected president of the Trust Company, succeeding Turck. County Treasurer William H. Van Etten was elected first vice president, and Elva H. Bogart, second vice president. Arthur A. Davis was re-elected secretary-treasurer; G. A. Craig, Ernest LeFever and Monroe Burger, assistant treasurers; James Jenkins, counsel, and John W. Eckert, trust officer.

Officers of Rank

In 1928, the Trust Company's main office was closed for a year during alterations, and business was transacted in the old Wiltwyck Inn on Main street.

Following the death of Philip Elting on July 20, 1941, William H. Van Etten was named president of the bank. He served until his death Feb. 14, 1951, when he was succeeded by the present president, Alva S. Staples. Other officers at present are Arthur A. Davis, vice president and treasurer; Ernest LeFever, vice president and assistant treasurer; Gordon A. Craig, secretary and assistant treasurer; Frank Finley, Vernon S. Miller, William Mulhern and George C. Bode, assistant treasurers; Ellis H. Griffiths, trust officer, and George Kaufman, counsel.

Fallsburgh, June 3 (AP)—The Rabbinical Council of America was told yesterday that recent instances of rabbis taking an interest in adjusting industrial conflicts is "a good phenomenon." He called industrial conflict "one of the sore spots of our American economy," and he proposed that rabbis be called in to help settle disputes between labor and management. Miller said the orthodox rabbinate has "a paramount interest in the field of social justice."

Parents' Queries Are Unanswered

Athens, June 3 (AP) — Parents' questions about the death of Norman Starke, 8, whose nude body was found Friday night in a swimming hole, remained unanswered today.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Starke said yesterday they were certain Norman had not died in the pool. They said the boy's head and face were battered, and asked for a complete investigation.

Alton B. Daley, a Greene county coroner, reported there had been no water in Norman's lungs. But he declined to say more "until our investigation is completed."

The pathologist at Columbia County Memorial Hospital in Hudson, Dr. Joseph Bellamy, said an autopsy had shown no indications of violence. His examination of the case will take a few more days, he added.

Norman was buried Monday.

Other children reported he had been at the swimming hole Friday afternoon, and had left for home. When he did not appear there, a search party was organized. The second-grader's body was found in the pool in Rope Walk creek, about a mile from his home.

Mrs. Starke said his soaked clothing was found at the home of a neighbor, whose children reported they had found it near the swimming hole and brought it home.

Norman could not swim and was "greatly afraid of the water," his mother said.

Painting of the interior of the field house "has improved it 1,000 per cent," he told the board.

He said Richard McLean, building superintendent for the board, had done a "splendid job getting the painting finished," that he even had the men working Saturdays and Sundays in order to complete the job by opening day.

Herzog also praised James Berardi who "has done a beautiful job of landscaping and blacktopping."

Sentencing of Two Put Off by Ryan

New York, June 3 (AP)—The sentencing of Ernest Zelnick, a former tax agent, and H. Harold Miller, an accountant, on charges of extortion in a tax case was postponed today by Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan to June 15.

The postponement was requested by Assistant U. S. Attorney David Carton, who told the court the two are to be government witnesses in a trial involving tax irregularities in upper New York state.

Zelnick, 31, formerly of Kingston, and Miller, 42, of Catskill, were indicted for extorting $3,000 from two Cairo, N. Y., merchants to fix an alleged error in an income tax return.

Zelnick pleaded guilty. He now could be sentenced to three years imprisonment and fined $5,000. Miller, convicted by a jury, faces a possible six-year jail term and a $10,000 fine.

Laud Ike's Program

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's order setting up machinery for a searching loyalty check of the 3,400 U. S. citizens employed by the United Nations drew applause today from Republicans and Democrats on Capitol Hill. Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said "this should have been done years ago." Ferguson conducted public hearings for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee which reported widescale Communist infiltration of this country's staff at UN. If there had been such a program, he added, the staff would not have been found with "so many" of those who refused to testify whether they were Communists at the time, or had been previously."

Contents of Red Letter Are Secret

Munsan, June 3 (AP)—The Communists handed the allies a letter relating to the Korean armistice talks at a two-minute meeting of liaison officers today. The UN command said its contents would remain secret.

An official spokesman said, however, a full-scale negotiating session will be held on schedule at 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. EST Wednesday) after a nine-day recess.

The Reds were expected to answer the latest allied proposal for breaking the prisoner exchange deadlock, last major barrier to a Korean truce.

Barring a last minute change, Thursday's truce session will be secret.

Asks for Secrecy

The UN command asked for secrecy, but the Communists reserved the right to ask at any time that the sessions be made public.

The disposition of 48,500 allied captives who refuse to return to communism is the last big road block to a cease-fire in the nearly three-year-old war.

The UN command offered its proposal in a closed door session May 25 and the contents never have been officially disclosed. South Korean sources have divulged most of the plan, however.

The talks then were recessed, first at allied request, then at Red request—indicating the Communists have given the offer serious study.

Communist radio stations—usually a sounding board for official policy—have been unusually quiet throughout the recess, giving no hint what the Red position might be.

The drawn-out talks resume amid apparently easing tension between the UN and South Korea, which has bitterly denounced the allied offer as a "sellout."

South Korea, after boycotting the May 25 session, indicated a delegate will attend Thursday's meeting in Panmunjom.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee, after disclosing he received a message from U. S. President Eisenhower, told newsmen Tuesday he will co-operate with the U. S. "at any cost."

Raps Red Teachers

New York, June 3 (AP)—President Grayson Kirk of Columbia University says any teacher who joins a totalitarian group has no right to remain on a college faculty. He adds that "no individual and no group outside the university can be allowed to dictate who shall teach or what shall be taught." Kirk addressed 6,000 Columbia graduates at commencement exercises yesterday following his formal installation as 14th Columbia president, succeeding President Eisenhower.

Without Opposition

Washington, June 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's choices for the nation's top military assignments have all been confirmed by the Senate, without opposition. The Senate yesterday approved Adm. Arthur W. Radford to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, chief of staff of the army; Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of staff of the air force.

Pier Fire Burns On

Boston, June 3 (AP)—A stubborn pier fire on the Charlestown waterfront burned on today after firefighters halted its spread during a night battle. Fire department officials believed it would be two days before the last of the slow-burning flames under the pier and in cargo would be extinguished. Several injured firefighters were given hospital treatment and discharged.

Wintry Touch

School Tax Cut

Kate Walton Field House and he felt it would not cost too much to make the change.

Herzog expressed a like sentiment, suggesting that a bronze placque would probably cost several hundred dollars, perhaps no more should be involved in changing the present sign.

The board adopted a motion by Mrs. Connelly that any rule or regulation of the board should be incorporated into a readily accessible record for the benefit of present and future members of the board. No such compilation exists at present.

Must Watch Expenditures

Laidlaw told the board it was running "very, very close" financially and that expenditures had to be watched very carefully during the current month in order to avoid a deficit.

He said there was $121,900 in actual cash as of June 2 and that the payroll would run $110,000, to which must be added insurance and other miscellaneous items.

He read to the board a list of schools all over the state which had found it necessary to curtail activities and services, including such items as school supplies, textbook requisitions, adult education, music, art, athletics, etc. He said it was important for the board to maintain a "cushion" in its budget and not to find itself in a position in which activities and services would have to be curtailed.

Rowland announced that the next meeting of the board would be held Thursday, June 25, and that the annual meeting would be held Thursday, July 2.

The school calendar for 1953-54, listing 196 days in session, of which five were legal holidays and seven others were days school would not be in session, was adopted by the board.

School will open Tuesday, Sept. 8, and will close Friday, June 25. Legal holidays will be Columbus Day, Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, Washington's birthday and Memorial Day. Other days school will not be in session were listed as Labor Day, Teachers' conference SE Zone, day after Thanksgiving, mid-term conference (two days) and days prior to Easter Sunday (two days).

Receives Traffic Report

The board took cognizance of a letter from Hugh Elwyn, president of the P-TA of the George Washington School, in which he submitted a report of the school traffic committee adopted unanimously by the P-TA.

The report signed by N. Jansen Fowler, chairman, copies of which were sent by the P-TA to the mayor, superintendent of the Board of Public Works and Common Council, pointed out that the speed of vehicles passing the school had been clocked and found to be in excess of the speed limit of 10 miles per hour. The majority were reported in excess of 15 miles per hour, with many exceeding 20 and even 25 miles per hour, a number of the offenders being parents bringing their children to school. Parents also park in prohibited areas in the vicinity of the school, the report stated.

The report recommended that the speed limit be changed from 10 to 15 miles per hour to conform with state law and that the city hire a special policeman for duty at the school. Until such a policeman were provided, the report stated, it was deemed advisable to have a blinker erected at the Marius street crossing of Washington avenue. The report also asked Council for a no parking zone in the school neighborhood from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

A letter from Joseph M. Boswell submitting his resignation as science teacher was approved by the board. It also received and filed a letter from Nicholas Cosmos expressing the appreciation of the Kingston Boy's Club for use of the George Washington school.

$300 Raised for Deed

The board received and filed a letter from Harry Rigby expressing appreciation for the response to a recent appeal for funds with which to purchase the historic Chambers deed. He pointed out in the letter that the appeal in the public schools had resulted in the collection of approximately $300 "indicating a love and respect for the community."

A letter from Ruth M. Betts submitting her resignation as assistant librarian was approved by the board.

Dan H. Allen, a graduate of Kingston High School with a BS degree from Oswego State Teachers College, three years in the army and four years teaching experience, was given a probationary appointment as a teacher in the vocational school at a salary of $3,550 effective in September.

Murray Reiner, with AB and MA degrees from New York University and 11 years experience as a teacher of physically and mentally handicapped children, was given probationary appointment as a special class teacher at a salary of $4,200 effective in September.

Marion E. F. Van Winkle, with a BS degree from New York University in physical education, certification in elementary education and four years teaching experience, was given probationary appointment as a teacher in the elementary schools at a salary of $2,250 effective in September.

Contracts Awarded

The following contracts were awarded: Art supplies, J. L. Hammett and Co., $7,840; 389 desks, American Seating Company, $5,597.35; 1250 master combination locks, $1,602.50, Valeo's Hardware Co.; five legal size files and 10 letter size files, William O'Reilly, Inc., $900; paint for the field house, Central Hudson Paint and Wallpaper Co.

The board also approved the purchase of a Monroe calculator for use in the high school commercial department at a cost of $518.50.

Purchase of 43 typewriters was authorized by the board to which 43 typewriters now in use at the high school are to be traded in. Figuring the reduction for trade-

Council Is Asked

the Parent-Teacher Association of the George Washington School, asked among other proposals, that the speed limit be changed from 10 to 15 miles an hour on streets near the school.

Traffic Proposals

The new traffic proposals were backed by a resolution offered by Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th ward, and seconded by Robert C. Cullum, 12th ward. It asked that full consideration be given the proposals and Alderman-at-Large Kelly referred it to the traffic committee, police chief, mayor and other officials suggested in the survey report.

The Parent-Teacher Association's committee reported it had studied conditions at the school entrance with emphasis on the Washington avenue side and found that "practically all vehicles exceeded the 10-mile-an-hour speed limit, and the majority were in excess of 15 miles an hour." Many were above 20 miles an hour and several over 25 miles an hour, the report said.

Parents Violate Law

Several of those who broke the speed limit, the report said, were persons bringing their own children to school.

It was found that more than 200 children cross the Marius street-Washington avenue intersection, and that some parents had been stopping cars in the "no-parking" areas. This practice, it said, blocks the vision of children crossing the street.

Six Recommendations

The six recommendations of the committee were: 1.—Change from 10 to 15 miles an hour the speed limit near the school to conform with the state regulation. 2.—That signs be changed to cover the change and placed at the bottom of the silent policemen as well as at the ends of the zones.

3.—That the city hire a special policeman for duty at Marius street and Washington avenue, and that until this is arranged that a blinker light be placed over the intersection.

4.—That a no parking zone be created on the southwest side of Washington avenue and maintained from Monday through Friday from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.

5.—That until a special policemen is assigned to Washington avenue and Marius street, that the police department arrange to patrol the area before and after school hours.

6.—That a special policeman be stationed on the Wall street side and that the children be instructed to cross at the Henry street intersection where the officer is stationed.

Routes Approved

On recommendation of its railroad and bus committee the council granted the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., its approval to transfer operation consent now held by the Woodstock-Kingston Bus Corp., to the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., "for certain motor bus routes in the city."

The application explained that on last May 22, the Woodstock-Kingston Bus Corp. entered into contract with the petitioner, the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp., to sell the former's bus line.

Approval of the transfer of title and rights, the application said, must be given by the Common Council, the town boards of Hurley and Woodstock and the New York State Public Service Commission. N. LeVan Haver was the attorney for the petitioner.

The application listed I. Levan Merrihew as president, and Senator Arthur H. Wicks, as treasurer and secretary of the Woodstock-Kingston Bus Corp., and Merrihew as president, Mildred Merrihew as secretary, and Senator Wicks as treasurer of the Pine Hill-Kingston Bus Corp.

Kelly Lauds Schechter

Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter's resignation was read and filed. He explained that he will move this month into the Third ward. He said it was an "honor and a privilege" to serve in the council and he treasures the "friendship and cooperation" he has found among the aldermen regardless of party affiliations.

Alderman-at-large Kelly said it had been a pleasure to have Alderman Schechter in the council. "He has been a good legislator and has served the people of his ward well. I hope he finds a lot of success and pleasure in his new home."

One-Way Streets

The council adopted proposals of its traffic committee to make Hanratty street one-way from Delaware avenue to Murray street, to prohibit parking on the left side, and to make Van Deusen street one-way from Broadway to Delmont street.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was granted permission to attend the State Fire Chiefs' Convention at Watertown June 14, 15 and 16, and City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer was authorized to attend the annual State Conference of Mayors and City Clerks at Long Beach, L. I., June 17 to 19.

The mayor's letter announcing appointment of former Alderman Paul J. Schatzel to the water board, was read and filed, and recalling that he had once served in the council, Alderman-at-large Kelly, said, "I think he'll make a good member of the water board."

Resolution on Park

Among resolutions was another by Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel asking action to prevent the use of cars "anywhere in the play area of Hutton Park." Some persons have been using the play area as a speedway, he said, and he called attention to a previous resolution mentioning this. He asked that the public works department put up signs to seal the area and the signs be placed at the approaches to prevent vehicles entering.

Alderman-at-large Kelly reins the total expenditure comes to $3,075. It is the policy of the board to turn in old typewriters every three years and purchase new ones, from local dealers if possible.

On the main floor, the lobby has been completely redecorated in modern banking house style, with attractive counter space and tellers' windows, carpeted floor, compartments for conferences, a committee room, loan department and men's locker room. The vault formerly used has been retained, but with newly painted interior.

A new heating system, air conditioning, and electrical wiring have been installed.

On Wednesday, Jan. 21, 1925, Elting was elected president of the Trust Company, succeeding Turck. County Treasurer William H. Van Etten was elected first vice president, and Elva H. Officers of Bank

In 1928, the Trust Company's main office was closed for a year during alterations, and business was transacted in the old Wiltwyck Inn on Main street.

Following the death of Philip Elting on July 20, 1941, William H. Van Etten was named president of the bank. He served until his death Feb. 14, 1951, when he was succeeded by the present president, Alva S. Staples. Other officers at present are Arthur A. Parents' Queries Are Unanswered

Athens, June 3 (AP)—Parents' questions about the death of Norman Starke, 8, whose nude body was found Friday night in a swimming hole, remained unanswered today.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Starke said yesterday they were certain Norman had not died in the pool. They said the boy's head and face were battered, and asked for a complete investigation.

Alton B. Daley, a Greene county coroner, reported there had been no water in Norman's lungs. But he declined to say more "until our investigation is completed."

The pathologist at Columbia County Memorial Hospital in Hudson, Dr. Joseph Bellamy, said an autopsy had shown no indications of violence. His examination of the case will take a few more days, he added.

Norman was buried Monday.

Other children reported he had been at the swimming hole Friday afternoon, and had left for home. When he did not appear there, a search party was organized. The second-grader's body was found in the pool in Rope Walk creek, about a mile from his home.

Mrs. Starke said his soaked clothing was found at the home of a neighbor, whose children reported they had found it near the swimming hole and brought it home.

Norman could not swim and was "greatly afraid of the water," his mother said.

Painting of the interior of the field house "has improved it 1,000 per cent," he told the board.

He said Richard McLean, building superintendent for the board, had done a "splendid job getting the painting finished," that he even had the men working Saturdays and Sundays in order to complete the job by opening day.

Herzog also praised James Berardi who "has done a beautiful job of landscaping and blacktopping."

Sentencing of Two Put Off by Ryan

New York, June 3 (AP)—The sentencing of Ernest Zelnick, a former tax agent, and H. Harold Miller, an accountant, on charges of extortion in a tax case was postponed today by Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan to June 15.

The postponement was requested by Assistant U. S. Attorney David Carton, who told the court the two are to be government witnesses in a trial involving tax irregularities in upper New York state.

Zelnick, 31, formerly of Kingston, and Miller, 42, of Catskill, were indicted for extorting $3,000 from two Cairo, N. Y., merchants to fix an alleged error in an income tax return.

Zelnick pleaded guilty. He now could be sentenced to three years imprisonment and fined $5,000. Miller, convicted by a jury, faces a possible six-year jail term and a $10,000 fine.

Cub Scouts Hold Final Pack Meet

New Paltz, June 3 — The Cub Scouts held their final Pack meet Friday, May 29. One hundred and fifteen Cubs, parents and brothers and sisters enjoyed a picnic supper on the Campus School field. After supper, Cubmaster Harrison took the Cubs aside for a short game of ball while the clearing up was done. The fire was built up for a campfire where the meeting was held. The Cubs formed the inner circle while the families made the outer circle.

Den 5 was in charge of the Salute to the Flag. Mrs. George Bond led in singing The Star Spangled Banner. Cubs sang two songs, Mister Shady and Blue Bonnets. The Hokie Pokie was sung and danced as the last musical activity.

Each family should take its own picnic food for the day, he said.

The living circle was formed by the Cubs for the closing of the program.

Nature Is Theme

Nature was the theme of the Cubs for May. Each den enjoyed some type of nature work and fun outdoors. Den 1 with Mrs. Argiro went for a hike and gathered stones. A student of Dr. Ordway's from the college came to visit the Den the following week and helped the Cubs classify the stones.

Den 2, Mrs. Philip's, studied insects and bugs. They first prepared a killing jay for them according to instructions with carbon tetrachloride, cotton and cardboard. Then mounted and classified the collection. At one meeting bread was cooked on a stick over a campfire.

Den 3 met the last month with Mrs. Jack Cotton who will be the new Den Mother next year. The Den played games in the yard and did stunts from the program book centered on nature.

Den 4, Mrs. Bond's group, had outdoor meetings and went on a hike. They studied plants growing in the back yard.

Den 5, Mrs. Pilch's group, visited a brook one day and looked under stones to see what lived there. They found a salamander, a garter snake and a frog. They also studied birds' nests but took only old nest and egg shell which had been left.

There is a waiting list already of 15 boys who want to be Cubs next year. Cubmaster Harrison said two more dens are needed. In all he wants to find three more mothers who will be Den Mothers next fall.

New Paltz, June 3—The Memorial Day parade was impaired by the rain. The line of march was shortened and speeches were curtailed as the slow rainfall became steadier. Servies Tax Doomed

New York, June 3 (AP)—A proposal to broaden the city's three per cent sales tax to more than 30 commercial services apparently has been doomed. City Comptroller Lazarus Joseph yesterday gave a re-estimate that a cash carryover in general funds from the current fiscal year would be 12 million dollars higher than the figure he previously had set. The City Counicl's Finance Committee then refused to report the tax bill out for consideration by the council. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri announced last night that there now is "no necessity" for the measure he had supported to extend the sales tax to 30-odd categories not now covered.

As Pegler Sees It

even radio pundits, who run heavily to wisdom and thus, inevitably, to thrift, he would gladly serve in the hyena car where they made hideous sounds far into the night and, once, threw a package of firecrackers into the shoe-box of a drawing room which had been pre-empted by Norman Davis, the old Roosevelt retainer and house-pet who was dead-heading it up to Berchtesgaden-on-Hudson to promote himself a $25,000 job as president of the Red Cross.

Newspaper men, photographers and even some radio philosophers observed a uniform rate of a dollar apiece, each way. With a normal compliment of 20, my friend could scratch a living, although lay-overs thinned him out, even so.

My friend agrees with me that the term "liberal" has become a mockery and it is his further divination that the Republicans were driven to an unwonted lavishness by the painful reiteration of the word "greed" as a synonym for their lofty principles.

I am more than half persuaded to this view because Anna Roosevelt bitterly complained of a similar phenomenon in her life after that rat, or, as her father preferred to call him, that slimy snake, Pegler, had nick-named her husband, John Boettiger, fumble John, and founded in the public mind the low canard that, in Chicago, where John had been a reporter, a nickel was called a Boettiger.

As one who holds in a certain awe men who are able to control their generosity, I have studied many of them from the late Charlie Ebbetts, owner of the Dodgers, on through Roosevelt, his wife, the boys, Wallace, Ickes and Boettiger. And on the basis of personal acquaintance I can affirm that fumble John was most conservative.

All I did in fumble John's case was give the man credit, but Anna said these comments pricked something in his psyche and moved him to extravagance.

"That rat," she is reported to have said, "has cost us $1,000 in extra tips!"

Servies Tax Doomed

New York, June 3 (AP)—A proposal to broaden the city's three per cent sales tax to more than 30 commercial services apparently has been doomed. City Comptroller Lazarus Joseph yesterday gave a re-estimate that a cash carryover in general funds from the current fiscal year would be 12 million dollars higher than the figure he previously had set. The City Council's Finance Committee then refused to report the tax bill out for consideration by the council. Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri announced last night that there now is "no necessity" for the measure he had supported to extend the sales tax to 30-odd categories not now covered.

Strike Halts Flights

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, June 3 (AP) — A strike of 31 flight mechanics forced cancellations today of all flights by Panair Do Brasil Airline. The mechanics are demanding increased pay for night work and overtime.

As Pegler Sees It

even radio pundits, who run heavily to wisdom and thus, inevitably, to thrift, he would gladly serve in the hyena car where they made hideous sounds far into the night and, once, threw a package of firecrackers into the shoe-box of a drawing room which had been pre-empted by Norman Davis, the old Roosevelt retainer and house-pet who was dead-heading it up to Berchtesgaden-on-Hudson to promote himself a $25,000 job as president of the Red Cross.

Newspaper men, photographers and even some radio philosophers observed a uniform rate of a dollar apiece, each way. With a normal compliment of 20, my friend could scratch a living, although lay-overs thinned him out, even so.

My friend agrees with me that the term "liberal" has become a mockery and it is his further divination that the Republicans were driven to an unwonted lavishness by the painful reiteration of the word "greed" as a synonym for their lofty principles.

I am more than half persuaded to this view because Anna Roosevelt bitterly complained of a similar phenomenon in her life after that rat, or, as her father preferred to call him, that slimy snake, Pegler, had nick-named her husband, John Boettiger, fumble John, and founded in the public mind the low canard that, in Chicago, where John had been a reporter, a nickel was called a Boettiger.

As one who holds in a certain awe men who are able to control their generosity, I have studied many of them from the late Charlie Ebbetts, owner of the Dodgers, on through Roosevelt, his wife, the boys, Wallace, Ickes and Boettiger. And on the basis of personal acquaintance I can affirm that fumble John was most conservative.

All I did in fumble John's case was give the man credit, but Anna said these comments pricked something in his psyche and moved him to extravagance.

"That rat," she is reported to have said, "has cost us $1,000 in extra tips!"

GOOD TASTE TODAY
By EMILY POST
(Author of Etiquette, "Children Are People," etc.)

FOR GRANDCHILDREN ONLY

The following letter is from a grandmother. She writes: "I am in my early sixties but am quite young looking for my age. My problem is this: While I am very proud to be called 'grandma' by my own grandchildren, I resent being called this by the children of my daughter's friends. It not only makes me feel like Methuselah, but I think this title should be reserved for members of one's own family. Don't you agree with me, Mrs. Post? And how can I show my disapproval without seeming rude? I would like to see this discussed in your column."

I agree with you thoroughly. I think the only thing do do is to say very plainly that, while you know it is meant as a term of affection, you like to keep it for the use of your own grandchildren.

The Faculty Receives

Dear Mrs. Post: Our school has an annual dinner. We invite members of the Board of Education, the wives and husbands of faculty members and others. In appointing hosts and hostesses, I think that only bona fide members of the faculty should be asked to act in this capacity; whereas the "opposition" thinks that the husband, or wife, should be asked to join his, or her, spouse in the receiving line. I think they should be guests only. I shall appreciate your opinion in this matter.

Answer: Husbands and wives of the faculty members should be present as guests only, and not permitted to stand in the receiving line.

Nail Polish For School Girls?

Dear Mrs. Post: We would like to have your opinion on the propriety of high-school girls wearing nail polish to school. This has caused a good deal of discussion and we would like to hear what you have to say on the matter.

Answer: I do not think the nail polish should be brightly colored. Otherwise, there is no objection to it.

What does the well-dressed business woman wear? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but readers wishing an answer the above question will find it in leaflet E-35, "The Well-Dressed Woman." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

FOR GRANDCHILDREN ONLY

The following letter is from a grandmother. She writes: "I am in my early sixties but am quite young looking for my age. My problem is this: While I am very proud to be called 'grandma' by my own grandchildren, I resent being called this by the children of my daughter's friends. It not only makes me feel like Methuselah, but I think this title should be reserved for members of one's own family. Don't you agree with me, Mrs. Post? And how can I show my disapproval without seeming rude? I would like to see this discussed in your column."

I agree with you thoroughly. I think the only thing do do is to say very plainly that, while you know it is meant as a term of affection, you like to keep it for the use of your own grandchildren.

The Faculty Receives

Dear Mrs. Post: Our school has an annual dinner. We invite members of the Board of Education, the wives and husbands of faculty members and others. In appointing hosts and hostesses, I think that only bona fide members of the faculty should be asked to act in this capacity; whereas the "opposition" thinks that the husband, or wife, should be asked to join his, or her, spouse in the receiving line. I think they should be guests only. I shall appreciate your opinion in this matter.

Answer: Husbands and wives of the faculty members should be present as guests only, and not permitted to stand in the receiving line.

Nail Polish For School Girls?

Dear Mrs. Post: We would like to have your opinion on the propriety of high-school girls wearing nail polish to school. This has caused a good deal of discussion and we would like to hear what you have to say on the matter.

Answer: I do not think the nail polish should be brightly colored. Otherwise, there is no objection to it.

What does the well-dressed business woman wear? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but readers wishing an answer the above question will find it in leaflet E-35, "The Well-Dressed Woman." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Has Historical Appeal

Beau Rivage has been chosen this year as the point of rendezvous for the 1953 meeting of the Southeastern Region because of its historic appeal as one of the really lovely old Orange county mansions, still reminiscent of life as it was once upon a time on the west bank of the Hudson river.

Cancer Group Plans 1953 Regional Rally In Newburgh Thursday

Field Army representatives from eight of the 54 counties included in the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society, will meet in regional conference at Beau Rivage on the River road at Newburgh June 4. The all-day meeting, which will include a luncheon recess at the Inn, will be under the leadership of Mrs. Laurence Marble, New York State Field Army director; Alan Stevenson, executive director of the New York State Division, and Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, New York state publicity director.

This will be the first of a series of regional meetings to be held at key points throughout the state during June. Designed to serve as a medium of inter-county exchange of ideas and suggestions for future planning of Field Army strategy, they also provide an opportunity for adjacent counties to meet once a year in friendly and helpful conference with their state leaders.

Has Historical Appeal

Beau Rivage has been chosen this year as the point of rendezvous for the 1953 meeting of the Southeastern Region because of its historic appeal as one of the really lovely old Orange county mansions, still reminiscent of life as it was once upon a time on the west bank of the Hudson river.

Representatives have been invited from Ulster, Greene, Putnam, Rockland, Delaware, Sullivan, Dutchess and Orange counties. Those who will attend from Ulster county are Mrs. Edwin Shumate of Lomontville, Ulster county Field Army director; Mrs. Pearl Smith of Marlborough; Mrs. Jesse McHugh of Wallkill and Mrs. Gifford Beal of Flatbush.

Excelsior Hose Auxiliary

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Excelsior Hose Auxiliary will hold its regular meeting Thursday, June 4, at the firehouse, Hurley avenue, at 8 p. m.

KHS Nine Ends Season by Thrashing Middletown High, 13 to 4

Burkemen Need Beacon Win Over NFA for Chance

Telepas, Houghtaling Sparkle in Relief

It's up to Beacon High now!

Kingston High closed out its DUSO baseball season by clubbing Middletown, 13 to 4, in a wild game at municipal stadium yesterday.

At the same time, Lefty Bob Early, the brilliant Newburgh Academy southpaw, hung a 5-0 shutout on Poughkeepsie High, granting only two hits and fanning 15.

That leaves Kingston's slim pennant chances squarely up to Beacon High. If they can trip their neighbors from across the river at Beacon Thursday, a tie will be effected in the DUSO standings and KHS and NFA will stage a playoff for the title.

Middies Open Fast

Things looked mighty dark for a few minutes in yesterday's wind-swept encounter. Middletown, aided by a couple of breaks and some loose fielding by the Maroon, went ahead 4-0 in the first. Southpaw Frank Reis, victim of an infield sneaker and a windblown blast to right center, was forced to make an early exit.

Along came George Telepas and later Jackie Houghtaling and the Middies picked up one run and nary a hit after that. Three of their four hits were off Reis and Telepas yielded the other.

Did Kingston fold? Not at all. Quickly they racked up a six-run first inning, shelling starter Charlie Williams and continuing the bombardment on Dom Scarano and Bill Redifer.

It was 6-4 Kingston at the end of the first. Then came a pair of runs in the third, three in the fifth and a final cluster of two in the sixth. Meanwhile, Telepas and Houghtaling were stringing gooseeggs for the muddling Middies, who committed seven errors.

Kingston drew batting strength from an unexpected source in Bob Fay, the right fielder who generally appears deep in the batting order. Bob went "4 for 4" for the best day of his high school career—two doubles and two singles.

Bob Shelightner sparked the first inning uprising with a long triple to the left field embankment and Eddie Van Loan powered another three bagger later in the game.

Now, if Beacon beats Newburgh Thursday!

Dodgers Halt Yankees; Pirates Upset Indians

Doug Mellin's Hit Breaks Up Contest

Doug Mellin collected one of the three hits doled out by Jack Fischer but it was the most important one in the Pirates-Indians National Little League contest at the upper Hasbrouck diamond yesterday.

It drove in the winning run for the Pirates for a 7-6 victory over the Indians for the first Pirate triumph of the season. The Indians, dropped to second place, have a 2-2 record.

The game was highlighted by brilliant pitching on both sides, high grade hurling that is not reflected in the boxscore.

Spada Fans 13

Jack Fischer, the Indian twirler, and Mike Spada permitted only three hits each. Spada boosted his strikeout total with 13 Indian victims and Fischer retired 11 on strikes.

John Fiore, the Pirate left fielder, collected a double for the only extra base hit of the game. The other two safeties went to Doug Mellin (the big one) and John Peck.

The three Indian singles were racked up by William Murphy, Sam Perry and Warren Stewart.

There is no game scheduled in the National League today, but the Braves and Tigers go at it on Thursday.

Armstrong Cracks Second Home Run

The Dodgers tried a couple of old established hands at new positions yesterday and crushed the undefeated Yankees, 10-2, in the American Little League at the 156th FA diamond.

Manager Bud Culloton's tossers squared their record for the season at 2-2 with a couple of interesting changes.

Hobart Armstrong, the jack of all trades, bobbed up as a catcher when big Jim Volker failed to show up. The switch didn't affect Hobart's hitting. He went "2 for 2," including a double and his second homer of the season.

Charlie Williams, normally an infielder, got his first starting assignment for the Dodgers and humbled the league leaders with four hits and fanned six.

John Melchoir and Charlie Tiano combined to rack up 11 strikeouts for the Yankees but the Dodgers bunched their hits effectively in the clutch.

Jerry McDonough pounded a double and single to pace the Yankees' attack. George Uhl and Garry Barnes picked up the other Dodger safeties. Charlie Tiano and Joe Stopski hit safely once for the Yankees.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JULIUS BOROS
U. S. Open Champion

Three types of stance are commonly used—the square, open and closed.

Each is strongly advocated by many.

The square stance is assumed by placing the feet parallel to the line of flight.

The toes should be slightly pointed outward—to about the same degree as your feet point when walking.

The weight should be distributed evenly between the feet. The ball is played off the left heel.

The open stance is formed by drawing the left foot back slightly from the line of flight. This causes the hips and body to face slightly to the left.

The closed stance is made by drawing the right foot back from the line of flight. This swings the hips and body somewhat to the right. The ball is played more off the left instep. The stance should be comfortable.

I get just the right amount of turn from the square stance and contact the ball squarely. That makes it easier for me to control the ball.

Sam Snead utilizes the closed stance, aims to the right, hits to the left. Jim Turnesa uses the closed stance.

I've experimented with the closed stance, but it makes me hook. It thus becomes a detriment to me unless I want to hook deliberately. Then I use it to help accomplish a specific purpose.

Jim Ferrier opens his stance a trifle, aims to the left, fades the ball from left to right.

To me, the open stance restricts the backswing because the arms are blocked by the body when it is turned. As a result, there is a tendency to produce more of an outside-in arc.

I seldom use an open stance except on short iron shots when I am pitching to the green.

Milwaukee Regains Lead By Shading Brooks, 4-3

Yanks Keep Rolling Against Chisox, 4-3

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

What a difference a day makes—at least in the standings of the National League.

Starting right from the top where the Milwaukee Braves brought an abrupt end to Brooklyn's 48 hour reign, six of the eight senior circuit clubs found their positions changed today from what they were on Monday.

The Braves were back in first place by half a game, Brooklyn had slipped to second. Third place belonged to Philadelphia instead of St. Louis. And at the other end Pittsburgh was out of the cellar and Chicago was in it.

Milwaukee moved in front the hard way—by whipping the Dodgers. Apparently completely forgetting that the old Braves folded at the mere sight of the Brooklyn team, this new Wisconsin variety went into the ninth inning at Ebbets Field trailing by one run and pulled out a 4-3 victory on a two run homer by Andy Pafko.

The drive by Pafko, all the more humiliating to the Dodgers since he was on their payroll until early this year, snapped a 10 game Brooklyn winning streak, the longest in either league.

The Phillies traded places with the Cardinals as Robin Roberts blanked the Red Birds on seven hits for his eighth victory, 5-0. The New York Giants and Cincinnati played the longest National League game of the season—13 innings—with the Red Legs scoring twice in the 13th for a 4-2 decision. Pittsburgh nipped Chicago, 4-3, in 11 innings at Forbes Field.

The National League had no monopoly on the marathon contests. In Detroit the Tigers and Philadelphia Athletics battled four hours and 28 minutes through 14 innings to a 7-7 tie. The game, which will have to be replayed from the start, was called because of the league curfew which prohibits the start of any inning after 12:50 a. m., local time.

Joe Collins' ninth inning homer, his second of the night, gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 margin over the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland kept pace with the Yanks by defeating Boston, 7-3, and St. Louis outlasted Washington, 5-3.

Jim Wilson and Lew Burdette combined to limit Brooklyn to five hits with Burdette, who came on in the eighth, picking up the victory, his third without a loss. Russ Meyer went all the way in defeat for Brooklyn.

At New York the Red Legs ruined a fine relief job by Dave Koslo as they bunched two singles and a triple by Jim Greengrass for two runs in the top of the 13th. Koslo had pitched 5 1/3 hitless innings before Gus Bell opened the 13th with a bloop single. Bud Podbielan went all the way for Cincinnati.

Frank Thomas, who believes in saving his home runs until they will do the most good, broke up the Pittsburgh-Chicago game with a bases-empty blast in the 11th. Thomas has hit four home runs this season; three of them have won games.

Satchel Paige, the ancient wonder of the St. Louis Browns, finally won his first game of the 1953 season. Satch took over in the sixth inning against Washington and retired 10 men in a row.

St. Mary's Beats St. Peter's, 6-0

St. Mary's parish baseball team defeated St. Peter's Holy Name squad, 6-0, in the opener of their annual baseball series at Block Park.

For seven innings the contest was a brilliant pitching duel between Bob Maines and Jack Houghtaling, each yielding only one safety.

Then the dikes burst in the eighth. A single, error and double by Redmond scored two runs. St. Mary's picked up four more in the ninth. A. Wood of the winners hit a double for the only extra base blow of the game.

Houghtaling permitted only two hits, fanned 15, and walked four. Maines allowed six hits, whiffed nine and walked six. W. Davis and R. Briody were the umpires. The series resumes next Sunday at St. Mary's diamond.

KHS Nine Ends Season by Thrashing Middletown High, 13 to 4

Burkemen Need Beacon Win Over NFA for Chance

Telepas, Houghtaling Sparkle in Relief

It's up to Beacon High now!

Kingston High closed out its DUSO baseball season by clubbing Middletown, 13 to 4, in a wild game at municipal stadium yesterday.

At the same time, Lefty Bob Early, the brilliant Newburgh Academy southpaw, hung a 5-0 shutout on Poughkeepsie High, granting only two hits and fanning 15.

That leaves Kingston's slim pennant chances squarely up to Beacon High. If they can trip their neighbors from across the river at Beacon Thursday, a tie will be effected in the DUSO standings and KHS and NFA will stage a playoff for the title.

Middies Open Fast

Things looked mighty dark for a few minutes in yesterday's wind-swept encounter. Middletown, aided by a couple of breaks and some loose fielding by the Maroon, went ahead 4-0 in the first. Southpaw Frank Reis, victim of an infield sneaker and a windblown blast to right center, was forced to make an early exit.

Along came George Telepas and later Jackie Houghtaling and the Middies picked up one run and nary a hit after that. Three of their four hits were off Reis and Telepas yielded the other.

Did Kingston fold? Not at all. Quickly they racked up a six-run first inning, shelling starter Charlie Williams and continuing the bombardment on Dom Scarano and Bill Redifer.

It was 6-4 Kingston at the end of the first. Then came a pair of runs in the third, three in the fifth and a final cluster of two in the sixth. Meanwhile, Telepas and Houghtaling were stringing gooseeggs for the muddling Middies, who committed seven errors.

Kingston drew batting strength from an unexpected source in Bob Fay, the right fielder who generally appears deep in the batting order. Bob went "4 for 4" for the best day of his high school career—two doubles and two singles.

Bob Shelightner sparked the first inning uprising with a long triple to the left field embankment and Eddie Van Loan powered another three bagger later in the game.

Now, if Beacon beats Newburgh Thursday!

Dodgers Halt Yankees; Pirates Upset Indians

Doug Mellin's Hit Breaks Up Contest

Doug Mellin collected one of the three hits doled out by Jack Fischer but it was the most important one in the Pirates-Indians National Little League contest at the upper Hasbrouck diamond yesterday.

It drove in the winning run for the Pirates for a 7-6 victory over the Indians for the first Pirate triumph of the season. The Indians, dropped to second place, have a 2-2 record.

The game was highlighted by brilliant pitching on both sides, high grade hurling that is not reflected in the boxscore.

Spada Fans 13

Jack Fischer, the Indian twirler, and Mike Spada permitted only three hits each. Spada boosted his strikeout total with 13 Indian victims and Fischer retired 11 on strikes.

John Fiore, the Pirate left fielder, collected a double for the only extra base hit of the game. The other two safeties went to Doug Mellin (the big one) and John Peck.

The three Indian singles were racked up by William Murphy, Sam Perry and Warren Stewart.

There is no game scheduled in the National League today, but the Braves and Tigers go at it on Thursday.

Armstrong Cracks Second Home Run

The Dodgers tried a couple of old established hands at new positions yesterday and crushed the undefeated Yankees, 10-2, in the American Little League at the 156th FA diamond.

Manager Bud Culloton's tossers squared their record for the season at 2-2 with a couple of interesting changes.

Hobart Armstrong, the jack of all trades, bobbed up as a catcher when big Jim Volker failed to show up. The switch didn't affect Hobart's hitting. He went "2 for 2," including a double and his second homer of the season.

Charlie Williams, normally an infielder, got his first starting assignment for the Dodgers and humbled the league leaders with four hits and fanned six.

John Melchoir and Charlie Tiano combined to rack up 11 strikeouts for the Yankees but the Dodgers bunched their hits effectively in the clutch.

Jerry McDonough pounded a double and single to pace the Yankees' attack. George Uhl and Garry Barnes picked up the other Dodger safeties. Charlie Tiano and Joe Stopski hit safely once for the Yankees.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JULIUS BOROS
U. S. Open Champion

Three types of stance are commonly used—the square, open and closed.

Each is strongly advocated by many.

The square stance is assumed by placing the feet parallel to the line of flight.

The toes should be slightly pointed outward—to about the same degree as your feet point when walking.

The weight should be distributed evenly between the feet. The ball is played off the left heel.

The open stance is formed by drawing the left foot back slightly from the line of flight. This causes the hips and body to face slightly to the left.

The closed stance is made by drawing the right foot back from the line of flight. This swings the hips and body somewhat to the right. The ball is played more off the left instep. The stance should be comfortable.

I get just the right amount of turn from the square stance and contact the ball squarely. That makes it easier for me to control the ball.

Sam Snead utilizes the closed stance, aims to the right, hits to the left. Jim Turnesa uses the closed stance.

I've experimented with the closed stance, but it makes me hook. It thus becomes a detriment to me unless I want to hook deliberately. Then I use it to help accomplish a specific purpose.

To me, the open stance restricts the backswing because the arms are blocked by the body when it is turned. As a result, there is a tendency to produce more of an outside-in arc.

I seldom use an open stance except on short iron shots when I am pitching to the green.

Milwaukee Regains Lead By Shading Brooks, 4-3

Yanks Keep Rolling Against Chisox, 4-3

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

What a difference a day makes—at least in the standings of the National League.

Starting right from the top where the Milwaukee Braves brought an abrupt end to Brooklyn's 48 hour reign, six of the eight senior circuit clubs found their positions changed today from what they were on Monday.

The Braves were back in first place by half a game, Brooklyn had slipped to second. Third place belonged to Philadelphia instead of St. Louis. And at the other end Pittsburgh was out of the cellar and Chicago was in it.

Milwaukee moved in front the hard way—by whipping the Dodgers. Apparently completely forgetting that the old Braves folded at the mere sight of the Brooklyn team, this new Wisconsin variety went into the ninth inning at Ebbets Field trailing by one run and pulled out a 4-3 victory on a two run homer by Andy Pafko.

The drive by Pafko, all the more humiliating to the Dodgers since he was on their payroll until early this year, snapped a 10 game Brooklyn winning streak, the longest in either league.

The Phillies traded places with the Cardinals as Robin Roberts blanked the Red Birds on seven hits for his eighth victory, 5-0. The New York Giants and Cincinnati played the longest National League game of the season—13 innings—with the Red Legs scoring twice in the 13th for a 4-2 decision. Pittsburgh nipped Chicago, 4-3, in 11 innings at Forbes Field.

The National League had no monopoly on the marathon contests. In Detroit the Tigers and Philadelphia Athletics battled four hours and 28 minutes through 14 innings to a 7-7 tie. The game, which will have to be replayed from the start, was called because of the league curfew which prohibits the start of any inning after 12:50 a. m., local time.

Joe Collins' ninth inning homer, his second of the night, gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 margin over the Chicago White Sox. Cleveland kept pace with the Yanks by defeating Boston, 7-3, and St. Louis outlasted Washington, 5-3.

Jim Wilson and Lew Burdette combined to limit Brooklyn to five hits with Burdette, who came on in the eighth, picking up the victory, his third without a loss. Russ Meyer went all the way in defeat for Brooklyn.

At New York the Red Legs ruined a fine relief job by Dave Koslo as they bunched two singles and a triple by Jim Greengrass for two runs in the top of the 13th. Koslo had pitched 5 1/3 hitless innings before Gus Bell opened the 13th with a bloop single. Bud Podbielan went all the way for Cincinnati.

Frank Thomas, who believes in saving his home runs until they will do the most good, broke up the Pittsburgh-Chicago game with a bases-empty blast in the 11th. Thomas has hit four home runs this season; three of them have won games.

Satchel Paige, the ancient wonder of the St. Louis Browns, finally won his first game of the 1953 season. Satch took over in the sixth inning against Washington and retired 10 men in a row.

St. Mary's Beats St. Peter's, 6-0

St. Mary's parish baseball team defeated St. Peter's Holy Name squad, 6-0, in the opener of their annual baseball series at Block Park.

For seven innings the contest was a brilliant pitching duel between Bob Maines and Jack Houghtaling, each yielding only one safety.

Then the dikes burst in the eighth. A single, error and double by Redmond scored two runs. St. Mary's picked up four more in the ninth. A. Wood of the winners hit a double for the only extra base blow of the game.

Houghtaling permitted only two hits, fanned 15, and walked four. Maines allowed six hits, whiffed nine and walked six. W. Davis and R. Briody were the umpires. The series resumes next Sunday at St. Mary's diamond.

KHS Netmen Split Ellenville Matches to Gain 10-7 Record

Kingston High's varsity tennis squad closed out its season by defeating Ellenville High, 3-1, for its seventh victory in 10 starts, Monday at the Hutton Park courts.

Coach Theron Culver's forces lost an interrupted match to the Ellies when the Robert Braun-Allen Hershon combine defeated Jack Schoonmaker and Richard Smith, 6-4, in the third and deciding set of a match halted by rain several days ago.

The teams were deadlocked 2-2, with one set apiece in the decisive doubles, when the match was interrupted.

Monday's results completed the Maroon schedule with double wins over every opponent except Newburgh Academy and Ellenville. The locals dropped two matches to the DUSO champions and split with their southwest Ulster county rivals.

In this week's regular match, Marty Kantrowitz, Richard Smith and Jack Schoonmaker swept their singles tests in straight sets. Ellenville's tandem of Kleinman and Brookman scored a surprise upset over Mark Silk and Phil Mandel, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Kingston High's varsity tennis squad closed out its season by defeating Ellenville High, 3-1, for its seventh victory in 10 starts, Monday at the Hutton Park courts.

Coach Theron Culver's forces lost an interrupted match to the Ellies when the Robert Braun-Allen Hershon combine defeated Jack Schoonmaker and Richard Smith, 6-4, in the third and deciding set of a match halted by rain several days ago.

Monday's results completed the Maroon schedule with double wins over every opponent except Newburgh Academy and Ellenville. The locals dropped two matches to the DUSO champions and split with their southwest Ulster county rivals.

In this week's regular match, Marty Kantrowitz, Richard Smith and Jack Schoonmaker swept their singles tests in straight sets. Ellenville's tandem of Kleinman and Brookman scored a surprise upset over Mark Silk and Phil Mandel, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Wiltwyck Motors Rally With Five in Sixth to Defeat Indians

Chase Brandt After Trailing By 4-2 Margin

Fisher, Peterson Excel in Relief

Joe Digastino and Tommy Fisher notwithstanding, the mighty Wiltwyck Motors needed a five-run rally in the sixth inning to repulse the scrappy Kingston Indians, 7-4, in the City League feature at the Athletic Field.

The Indians clubbed usually effective Digastino for eight hits and four runs in five innings to take a 4-2 lead. For the Motormen it was their second straight and tied them with Colonial Merchants for the league lead.

Then came the sixth and a fatal blowup by Ronnie Brandt, the Indian starter. Even then the Indians salvaged a measure of glory for their relief hurler, Bill Peterson.

Peterson came on during the five-run rally and proceeded to check it with two strikeouts. He added three more in the seventh for a total of five out of six, with the Motormen spacing three hits in between.

Fisher, perennial Jones Dairy ace, made his 1953 debut with two hitless innings of relief behind Digastino.

The middle of the batting order accounted for 8 of the 11 Wiltwyck safeties. J. Passante clubbed two singles and a triple and knocked in four runs. Harry Kite poled three singles and Ed Passante stroked two singles.

B. Gordon, the Indians shortstop, hit a double and two singles, Fred Orr tripled for the losers.

The Big Inning

The big sixth went something like this for the Wiltwycks:

Finn, a pinch hitter, reached first on Peterson's error. A. Passante singled to left and Tom Murphy beat out a bunt to load the bases.

Indians missed a force play at the plate on Ed Passante's rap to second, D. Minadeo scoring. Lefty Passante's rap to left chased A. Passante and Tom Murphy across with the second and third runs. The sacks were re-loaded and Peterson replaced Brandt.

Tom Murphy's bloop single to center scored Ed Passante and Kite was forced in with the fifth marker when Peterson walked Minadeo.

Dodgers Defeat Yankees In Esopus LL's Opener

Massey's Clutch Hit Does It; Colanee HRs

The Esopus Little League launched its 1953 season with a wild and wooly ball game between the Dodgers and last year's champion Indians at Ross Field in Port Ewen.

Trailing by 6-1 early in the game, the Dodgers rallied for three in the fourth and four in the fifth to square the game at 8-8.

Colance Homers

Dick Terpening and Turner yielded only five hits between them but loose play enabled the Indians to score eight times and once lead by as much as 6-1.

The Dodgers collected 7 safeties off Bob Short, who struck out 13. Turner (6) and Terpening (7) equalled that total.

Bruce Holmes of the Indians had a double and single and Ron Massey had a triple besides his game-winning single. Terpening also clouted a three bagger and Myers and Robinson hit doubles. Don Colance of the Dodgers slammed the first homer of the season over the new fence with two on in the fifth.

Brief pre-game ceremonies were held and Mrs. Paul Beaver, mother of Little Leaguers Vince and Joe Beaver, tossed out the first ball.

Subway Grill is rolling in the City Softball League these days. Just like they're aiming to prove that last year's Hilltop triumph was just a fluke.

The Grillmen, perennial powerhouse of local softball circles, trounced the aspiring Alpine Climbers, 10-3, Monday for their fifth straight triumph without a loss.

Veteran Walt Bigler and Joe Amato were nicked for 10 hits by the Alpines but never when they really hurt. The winners raked George "No-Hit" Magley for 16 safeties, including a double and homer by Tom Spada. Amato relieved Bigler in the third and pitched four-hit shutout ball the rest of the way.

Tommy Maines rapped two singles and a triple and Vince Polk went "3 for 3," a double and two singletons. Don Riehl, Joe Scholar hit safely twice. J. Ortlieb, B. Slover, George Magley and J. Hasbrouck clubbed two Alpine hits each.

Hilltops Win

Hilltops scored an important victory over Beichert's Studies, 7-4, with veteran Ben Freer pitching an effective 8-hitter.

Nick Carle and Art Hansen blasted three hits each to lead Hilltop's 15-hit assault against Ed Decker. Three basehits went to Joe Woods, Schneider, Nick Carle, Boo Schaffer and Art Hansen.

Joe Ruzzo went on a rampage with four straight singles to pace Lincoln Park Inn's 10-5 triumph over Cherny's. Frank Embree's grand slam homer was another big factor. Bud Leininger slammed another one.

While Lincolns were raking Ed Lowe for 14 hits, Stan Horne turned in an effective 8-hitter. Only C. Van Wagenen gave him any trouble with three singles in four trips. Lafayette Holstein singled and doubled.

Leininger added two singles to his homer and Ken Hornbeck poled two singletons. B. Beesmer doubled and B. Faurote smashed a triple.

Bill Ferguson smashed a three-run homer in the bottom of the sixth to win his own game for the Esopus Legion against the VFW, 11 to 10. He yielded one tally in the VFW seventh and then closed shop.

Ferguson granted 12 hits and the winners collected 14 off Dyon and Schreiber in a free swinging affair marked by five home runs.

Crespino slapped a pair of round trippers and a single for the VFW. Bergmann poled two doubles and a single. Lane, DiFerrara and Ferguson also hit for the circuit.

Cliff Davis unloaded three singles for the Legion. Don Ferraro, Herb Ferguson and Bill Ferguson each dented the hit column twice.

Jessie Burnett Tops BYA Loop

Jessie Burnett's 498, with 172-161-165, led the BYA Summer League last night at the Bowlodrome.

Runnerup Elizabeth Bruck posted 472 and Fay Horne hit 467. Other top shooters were Emma Pratt 464, Kay Brodhead 458, B. Cadden 459 and E. Hulton 450.

C. Marks shot 440; Joan Krueger 431, Arlene Raible 419, D. Walthery 418, Nellie Alverson 412, Thelma Garon 400.

Team results:

Regina's 3, Jones Dairy 0; Schuler's Inn 2, Potter Bros. 1; Rainbow Inn No. 2 (3), Town Shoppe 0; Rainbow Inn No. 1 (2), Mac's Market 1.

Wiltwyck Motors Rally With Five in Sixth to Defeat Indians

Chase Brandt After Trailing By 4-2 Margin

Fisher, Peterson Excel in Relief

Joe Digastino and Tommy Fisher notwithstanding, the mighty Wiltwyck Motors needed a five-run rally in the sixth inning to repulse the scrappy Kingston Indians, 7-4, in the City League feature at the Athletic Field.

The Indians clubbed usually effective Digastino for eight hits and four runs in five innings to take a 4-2 lead. For the Motormen it was their second straight and tied them with Colonial Merchants for the league lead.

Then came the sixth and a fatal blowup by Ronnie Brandt, the Indian starter. Even then the Indians salvaged a measure of glory for their relief hurler, Bill Peterson.

Peterson came on during the five-run rally and proceeded to check it with two strikeouts. He added three more in the seventh for a total of five out of six, with the Motormen spacing three hits in between.

Fisher, perennial Jones Dairy ace, made his 1953 debut with two hitless innings of relief behind Digastino.

The middle of the batting order accounted for 8 of the 11 Wiltwyck safeties. J. Passante clubbed two singles and a triple and knocked in four runs. Harry Kite poled three singles and Ed Passante stroked two singles.

B. Gordon, the Indians shortstop, hit a double and two singles, Fred Orr tripled for the losers.

The Big Inning

The big sixth went something like this for the Wiltwycks:

Finn, a pinch hitter, reached first on Peterson's error. A. Passante singled to left and Tom Murphy beat out a bunt to load the bases.

Indians missed a force play at the plate on Ed Passante's rap to second, D. Minadeo scoring. Lefty Passante's rap to left chased A. Passante and Tom Murphy across with the second and third runs. The sacks were re-loaded and Peterson replaced Brandt.

Tom Murphy's bloop single to center scored Ed Passante and Kite was forced in with the fifth marker when Peterson walked Minadeo.

Dodgers Defeat Yankees In Esopus LL's Opener

Massey's Clutch Hit Does It; Colanee HRs

The Esopus Little League launched its 1953 season with a wild and wooly ball game between the Dodgers and last year's champion Indians at Ross Field in Port Ewen.

Trailing by 6-1 early in the game, the Dodgers rallied for three in the fourth and four in the fifth to square the game at 8-8.

Colance Homers

Dick Terpening and Turner yielded only five hits between them but loose play enabled the Indians to score eight times and once lead by as much as 6-1.

The Dodgers collected 7 safeties off Bob Short, who struck out 13. Turner (6) and Terpening (7) equalled that total.

Bruce Holmes of the Indians had a double and single and Ron Massey had a triple besides his game-winning single. Terpening also clouted a three bagger and Myers and Robinson hit doubles. Don Colance of the Dodgers slammed the first homer of the season over the new fence with two on in the fifth.

Brief pre-game ceremonies were held and Mrs. Paul Beaver, mother of Little Leaguers Vince and Joe Beaver, tossed out the first ball.

While Lincolns were raking Ed Lowe for 14 hits, Stan Horne turned in an effective 8-hitter. Only C. Van Wagenen gave him any trouble with three singles in four trips. Lafayette Holstein singled and doubled.

Leininger added two singles to his homer and Ken Hornbeck poled two singletons. B. Beesmer doubled and B. Faurote smashed a triple.

Bill Ferguson smashed a three-run homer in the bottom of the sixth to win his own game for the Esopus Legion against the VFW, 11 to 10. He yielded one tally in the VFW seventh and then closed shop.

Ferguson granted 12 hits and the winners collected 14 off Dyon and Schreiber in a free swinging affair marked by five home runs.

Crespino slapped a pair of round trippers and a single for the VFW. Bergmann poled two doubles and a single. Lane, DiFerrara and Ferguson also hit for the circuit.

Cliff Davis unloaded three singles for the Legion. Don Ferraro, Herb Ferguson and Bill Ferguson each dented the hit column twice.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Very often inventions for our convenience were invented by someone for his own comfort. Most everyone at some time or other has carried book matches and few have given thought about how they came to be. Believe it or not they were invented by a Philadelphia lawyer in 1889 according to the Mechanix Illustrated of May 1953. Joshua Pusey the Philadelphia lawyer, was a heavy cigar smoker and those who know realize that sometimes it takes more than one match to get a good cigar really going. He used to ride in a slow train to his office and did not like to carry loose wooden matches in his pocket or a bulging metal case for them.

First Mr. Pusey invented a folded paper with an igniting strip in the crease, with a match-head tipped splint of paper which he drew through the crease to produce a light. His first "friction match book" was patented in 1889 and had 50 splints. It measured two by three inches. In 1892 he patented a book of matches with 24 of them glued or stapled inside one cover with an igniting surface painted inside the other. These could be struck like household matches. And believe it or not he could not find a market for it. They do not tell the year when finally a large match manufacturer offered him $5,000 for the patent and $5,000 yearly for life which it seems he accepted.

The first book matches had blank covers, one of these reached Henry Traute, a salesman who thought of an idea and brought it to a head by having a lithographer print an ad for Pabst Beer on the cover and then he dashed over to the brewer where he received an order for 10,000,000 such book matches. They say today the annual production by the match industries of such book matches runs into 12,500,000,000. They are being produced by some 257,000 advertisers who pay $26,000,000 and the smoking American public is getting some 31,000,000 match books a day, for free. Little did the Philadelphia lawyer, Joshua Pusey, realize what an industry he started, by looking for something for his own convenience.

I wonder how many people remember when sugar was selling for 22 cents a pound in Kingston. According to the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, December 26, 1919 not only was that the price but it was practically impossible to buy it. It was rumored that in some downtown stores one could buy five pounds at one time which nearly caused a run on the store. In fact things were so bad that "the district attorney had announced that he will investigate all complaints of profiteering and if he finds sufficient evidence will prosecute the offenders. The latest ruling of the government is that a retailer may sell sugar at one and one-quarter cents a pound more than it cost him delivered at his store," the item said.

I remember in those days it was nearly impossible to buy even one pound of sugar at that price, although there were some under-the-counter sales for special customers. I was never one of those 'special customers.' Yet, like always there was rumor that tons of sugar was somewhere begging to be put on the market. Whether it is true or false one never seems to find out.

Ice Cream Crisis

Lubbock, Tex. (AP) — The happy chimes of the ice cream vendor are giving city officials here their biggest headache in years. Until recently Lubbock's colorful ice cream trucks chimed up and down neighborhoods unchallenged. Then several citizens complained. They worked nights and the chimes disturbed their sleep. Besides, how could children take their naps when the chimes kept them awake? Didn't the police know it was against the law to use amplifiers for commercial purposes? Sure enough, it was. A city ordinance prohibits such amplifiers. The ice cream men were told to shut off their music. More complaints came in — this time against the silence. Such as: "How are we to know when the ice cream man comes around if we can't hear him?" — or — "Why don't the men sound their chimes any more?"

Brussels (AP) — The average Belgian workers' family earns around $1,494 a year, according to figures released here by the Belgian "Institut Universitaire d'Information Sociales et Economiques" polling institute. This figure was established after a survey amongst some 277 Belgian workers' families.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, June 2—Chester Sharrocks, Sr., and sons, Chet and Bob, of Richmond Hill, were among the out of town residents spending the weekend here. The trio as usual on their trips to Shokan, stayed at the James Carpenter camp along the Ridge road. They did some fishing in the reservoir but were unable to land anything of size though they did see some big ones pulled from the Ashokan deeps by others.

Callers in the village last week included Howard Moshier, assistant principal of the Onteora School and a resident of Phoenicia. Moshier, formerly of Syracuse, was selected by Commander Ernest Gardiner of the Olive Legion Post to deliver the principal address at the Memorial Day ceremonies in Olive Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Fayette Peck of New York were holiday guests at the summer home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peck on the cross mountain road.

Eddie Brace of New York, assistant to Howard Richards, recently accompanied the Richards family here for a two-days trip in the country. Eddie, a native of the West Indies, made a good start on the job of hand-mowing the Richards one-acre lawn in the village center.

Echoes of Horse & Buggy Days: May 1896—David Van Kleeck has bought a fine young horse of S. J. Roosa which his son, Jerry VanKleeck, has had out speeding occasionally (Jerry, formerly of Brown's, is now one of the Town of Rochester's oldest citizens). . . . A bluestone block 9x15 feet, was hauled from Riley's South Olive quarry recently. . . . Last month, the boys, not content with giving Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Shurter a rousing serenade Monday, resumed their noisy performance Saturday. . . . A party of young folks climbing old High Point included the following: Carrie Winchell; Roena and Phoebe Van Kleeck, Tillie Nichols, Roxy Boice, Lorenzo Beesmer and Aaron Mackey. (Miss Boice was the current teacher of the Winchell district school).

Judge Roger H. Loughran of Old Hurley was numbered among the many callers in the hub of the reservoir country Saturday.

Mrs. Earl Elmendorf was among the first to plant garden following the long rainy spell which precluded any work along this line. In Ashokan, the Floyd Merrihews as usual have their two large vegetable plots in fine shape for a big crop of home-grown produce. There is a growing tendency upon the part of villagers in this area not to plant any gardens at all.

Desert Grass Expensive

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — Growing grass in public parks is an expensive proposition in the desert area. The city council has postponed action until next fiscal year on a proposal to grass Oury Park because the park department funds have been almost completely committed. The park is named for the man who was elected delegate from Arizona to the Confederate Congress in the Civil War but who never took his seat and later became a civic leader in the territory of Arizona.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, June 2—Chester Sharrocks, Sr., and sons, Chet and Bob, of Richmond Hill, were among the out of town residents spending the weekend here. The trio as usual on their trips to Shokan, stayed at the James Carpenter camp along the Ridge road. They did some fishing in the reservoir but were unable to land anything of size though they did see some big ones pulled from the Ashokan deeps by others.

Callers in the village last week included Howard Moshier, assistant principal of the Onteora School and a resident of Phoenicia. Moshier, formerly of Syracuse, was selected by Commander Ernest Gardiner of the Olive Legion Post to deliver the principal address at the Memorial Day ceremonies in Olive Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Fayette Peck of New York were holiday guests at the summer home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peck on the cross mountain road.

Eddie Brace of New York, assistant to Howard Richards, recently accompanied the Richards family here for a two-days trip in the country. Eddie, a native of the West Indies, made a good start on the job of hand-mowing the Richards one-acre lawn in the village center.

Echoes of Horse & Buggy Days: May 1896—David Van Kleeck has bought a fine young horse of S. J. Roosa which his son, Jerry VanKleeck, has had out speeding occasionally (Jerry, formerly of Brown's, is now one of the Town of Rochester's oldest citizens). . . . A bluestone block 9x15 feet, was hauled from Riley's South Olive quarry recently. . . . Last month, the boys, not content with giving Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Shurter a rousing serenade Monday, resumed their noisy performance Saturday. . . . A party of young folks climbing old High Point included the following: Carrie Winchell; Roena and Phoebe Van Kleeck, Tillie Nichols, Roxy Boice, Lorenzo Beesmer and Aaron Mackey. (Miss Boice was the current teacher of the Winchell district school).

Judge Roger H. Loughran of Old Hurley was numbered among the many callers in the hub of the reservoir country Saturday.

Mrs. Earl Elmendorf was among the first to plant garden following the long rainy spell which precluded any work along this line. In Ashokan, the Floyd Merrihews as usual have their two large vegetable plots in fine shape for a big crop of home-grown produce. There is a growing tendency upon the part of villagers in this area not to plant any gardens at all.

Desert Grass Expensive

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — Growing grass in public parks is an expensive proposition in the desert area. The city council has postponed action until next fiscal year on a proposal to grass Oury Park because the park department funds have been almost completely committed. The park is named for the man who was elected delegate from Arizona to the Confederate Congress in the Civil War but who never took his seat and later became a civic leader in the territory of Arizona.

Washington, June 3 (AP)—A House subcommittee on un-American activities will hold hearings in Albany next month to look for any Communist influence in defense plants and schools through a broad section of upstate New York. Rep. Harold H. Velde (R-Ill.), chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, said yesterday the hearings would begin July 13 and about 20 witnesses would be subpoenaed. Velde told a reporter that Rep. Bernard W. Kearney, Republican from Gloversville, N. Y., would head the subcommittee. Kearney said the hearings would last about a week.

One of my favorite words in the English language is "serendipity"—the ability to find good things that you weren't looking for. This wonderful gift came to declarer's rescue in today's hand.

West opened the queen of hearts, and South won in his own hand with the king. Declarer drew three rounds of trumps with the ace, queen, and jack of spades, after which he got to dummy with the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. South continued by taking the top clubs and ruffing a club in dummy.

At this moment the lead was in dummy and declarer had one trump and three diamonds in each hand. He intended to lead a low diamond from dummy and finesse the eight of diamonds from his own hand in order to thrust West into the lead.

If this maneuver could be executed, West would have to return a diamond and give declarer a free finesse. (If West could return anything else, declarer could ruff in dummy and discard a diamond from his own hand.)

Much to South's disappointment, East put up the ten of diamonds when that suit was led from dummy. South swallowed his disappointment and played the low diamond from his hand. There was no need to finesse the queen of diamonds at this time, for South would have a chance to finesse if East led another diamond.

Here is where serendipity came to declarer's rescue. East couldn't lead another diamond. This was a piece of good luck that South hadn't been looking for. It didn't matter whether East returned a heart or a club; in either case declarer could dicard his queen of diamonds while dummy ruffed.

While you're congratulating South for his good luck, however, don't forget to give him credit for playing the hand properly. It was necessary to strip out the hearts and clubs before attacking the diamonds; otherwise East would have exited safely with a heart or a club, and South would have lost a second diamond trick.

Socialites to Wed

New York, June 3 (AP)—Francis Dewey Everett, Jr., of 1165 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, and Miss Eleanor Delafield, of Syosset, N. Y., both listed in the social register will be married June 13 in Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., it was learned yesterday when they obtained a marriage license at the municipal building.

Co-Leaders Named For Scout Drive

Raymond S. Quackenbush of Saugerties and Lewis H. Short of Kingston have been named co-chairmen of the Rip Van Winkle Council 1953 Annual Finance Campaign, the Executive Board of the Council announced today.

Upon recommendation of the finance committee the board approved $20,000 as the goal which must be raised in the two county area to successfully and adequately operate and to meet the increased demand for more Scouting in the various communities of the council territory. Tme board also approved the dates of the month of July for the Initial Gifts solicitation and the first two weeks in August (August 2-15) for the door to door solicitation.

The proportionment of the budget shows that 45 per cent will be spent on services to Packs, Troops, Explorer Posts and Institutions using the Scouting program; 17 per cent for general administration (rent, office supplies, postage, telephone, etc.); 14 per cent for training volunteers; 13 per cent for camping and activities, 9 per cent for organization of new Packs, Troops and Posts; and 2 per cent for services from the National and Regional offices.

The Rip Van Winkle Council covering Ulster and Greene counties has reached an all-time membership high of 1876 boys and 865 adults in 20 Cub Scout Packs, 56 Scout Troops and 4 Explorer Posts.

District campaign chairmen appointed are as follows: Kingston District, George B. Matthews of Kingston; Rondout Valley District, Dr. Martin Fields of Ellenville; Saugerties District, Daniel Lamb of Saugerties; Mountain District, Newton Ford of Windham; Southern District, Herbert Bell of Milton and Kelly Campbell of New Paltz. No one has been appointed in the Northern or Western Districts to date.

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Alvin McCorkle, chairman of their Boy Scout Committee will assist by giving leadership to a one-night city-wide solicitation some time in August.

A Montana woman suing for a divorce, told the court the other day that her husband smoked too much, drank occasionally, was out late once in a while, spent too much money on fishing tackle, read the newspaper when she was talking to him, did not know how to drive a car properly, was abrupt with her relatives and did not go to church very often.

The judge agreed that he was deserving of punishment so refused to give her a divorce.

When the city slicker had completely filled his bucket with milk, he took the cow's head and forced it into the pail while the cow drank all the milk. The earth has a vibration all its own, according to scientists.

OFFICE CAT

(Trade Mark Reg.)

By Junius

A Montana woman suing for a divorce, told the court the other day that her husband smoked too much, drank occasionally, was out late once in a while, spent too much money on fishing tackle, read the newspaper when she was talking to him, did not know how to drive a car properly, was abrupt with her relatives and did not go to church very often.

The judge agreed that he was deserving of punishment so refused to give her a divorce.

Vacationer

Although the roads are clearly marked,
And maps are most explicit,
I take the shortcut every time,
And every time I miss it.
—Ned Wadlinger

Two cross-eyed men met squarely on the side-walk one morning in a head-on collision.

First—(angrily) Why don't you look where you're going?

Other — (shouting) Why don't you go where you're looking?

The city man was demonstrating the technique of milking a cow before the patient gaze of a farmer. When the city slicker had completely filled his bucket with milk, he took the cow's head and forced it into the pail while the cow drank all the milk. The farmer confessed he could not understand this procedure. The city man explained: "I found the milk pretty thin and decided to run it through just once more.

She—I see your boxer dog has a cauliflower ear.

Him—Well, he's not a good boxer.

Father's Day has come and gone, but a greeting one father got from his seven-year-old daughter, written on a card, still has him wondering. It read "May all your days be happy until you come to the end of your rope."

Only if you possess a clear conscience can you obtain constant serenity of mind.

Worry is like a rocking chair—giving you somethng to do but not getting you anywhere.

Golfer — This s a terrible course, caddy, terrible!

Caddy—Sorry, sir, this ain't the course—you got off that an hour ago!

FUNNNY BUSINESS — By HERSCHBERGER

"I hunted for years till I found a place with trees like that —so the wife can get in and out of the garage!"

Pisa Tower Popular

Pisa, Italy (AP) — The leaning tower of Pisa, which has been giving tourists criks in the neck for 600 years, is at the top of her tipsy glory these days. For reasons pleased Pisans don't entirely understand, their tilting tower is drawing the biggest crowds of sight-seers in her history. Visitors are jamming this city of 70,000 population so tightly it's hard to find a place to park a car. Some drivers, intent on a view of the tower, park near the city outskirts and return to the center by horse-drawn carriage. "Nothing like this has ever happened before," announced the Pisa tourist office, rubbing its hands.

Coffee Break Politics

Washington, Ia. (AP) — Here's a club with more than 1,000 members — and every single one of them a past president. It's the Washington Coffee Club whose top officers serves for one day only — and never seeks re-election. The club has past presidents throughout Iowa and even in several foreign countries. Any stranger who can be persuaded to attend a meeting is a cinch to be elected president. Fifty to 100 members of the organization gather at 10 a. m. each week day, drink a cup of coffee, elect a president and adjourn. The president's sole and unavoidable responsibility is to pick up the check for everybody's coffee.

Match Industry Booming

Goa, Portuguese India (AP)— Goa's first match factory hopes to reach a target of 1,000 boxes per day gross output soon and plans exports to Pakistan, Portuguese East Africa, and British East Africa. Launched by M. B. Shah, formerly of Zanzibar, the venture followed Shah's 1950 visit to Japan. He purchased machinery from the Toa Seiki firm, for $210,000. Two hundred workers are now employed.

Ike's Birthplace Is Firetrap

Denison, Tex. (AP) — President Eisenhower's birthplace has been termed a firetrap. A team of fire-hazard investigators, making a routine inspection of the little white house in this North Texas city where Mr. Eisenhower was born, discovered: A serious gas leak in an antique cookstove. Two open chimney flues. A weakened structural condition caused by a previous fire which charred walls of a bedroom and hall. They recommended painting interior walls with fire-resistant paint, filling chimney holes with concrete and replacing the roof with fire-proof material. The birthplace is now a national shrine.

'Better Than Scotch!'

New York (AP)—The Scots have come up with a drink they think is better than their famous Scotch whisky, reports British Information Services. It's called "Atholl brose," known in the Highlands for centuries, but now being produced commercially. It's a combination of heather honey, oatmeal and whisky (some recipes include cream). It was mentioned in Robert Louis Stevenson's classic "Kidnapped," and dates back as far as the reign of James III.

New Shark for Pacific

Sacramento, Calif. (AP) — Presence in the eastern Pacific Ocean of the white-tipped shark, heretofore believed confined to the Atlantic Ocean, has been established: The California Department of Fish and Game reports that a recent tuna exploration cruise off Central and South America caught 12 of the sharks on longlines at five different stations. One specimen was frozen for study ashore.

The Leaning Tower of Pisa, built as a bell tower, rarely is used for its original purpose lest the vibrations should increase the tilt.

Chinese Fret Filipinos

Manila (AP) — Disposal of 2,400 Chinese nationals whose visitor visas have expired is posing a big problem to the Philippines. "They cannot be deported as neither Hong Kong nor Formosa is willing to accept them," foreign under-secretary Felino Neri told a Senate Finance Committee hearing. Neri said the Chinese, here since 1949, are unable to return to their homeland because of Communist occupation. The Philippines has not recognized Communist China.

Aid for India

New Delhi (AP) — The World Health Organization assists more projects "in active operation" in India than anywhere else in the world, a WHO announcement says. Out of 200 health projects launched with WHO assistance in 62 different countries, 18 center in India with an international staff of 38 professors, doctors, nurses, and technicians.

Louisiana does not have counties, but its parishes are civil and political divisions which correspond to counties in other states.

Election Overlooked

Brewster, Neb. (AP) — It was purely an oversight, an official explained, but this incorporated village of 69 persons forgot to hold its 1953 city election recently. It made little difference, a spokesman for the city fathers said. There were no contests for offices and the old members of the village board will carry on for another year. Saved about $25 in election expenses, too, the spokesman said.

Birth Control Panic

Singapore (AP) — Medical authorities here are using loudspeaker vans to convince illiterate Chinese villagers in the rural areas that government is not carrying out birth control operations during medical checks on their children. The rumors started when government doctors visited the rural schools for medical checkups of the children, during which the sex organs were examined for hygienic reasons. But panic spread among the villagers who believed the check was to tamper with the reproductory functions of children owing to the rapidly expanding population.

You can't hang cable on part of a pole

In 1940 your telephone company could buy a brand-new pole for $8.30. Today it costs $19.90 every time we replace a worn-out pole or add a new one.

And that's just one example of how inflation has hit us. The cable we hang on the poles has more than doubled in cost. The motor trucks we use are up even more. Central-office buildings cost twice what they did in 1940. In fact, everything needed to bring you telephone service costs a lot more today.

Everyone feels inflation. Your cost of living is up 89% since 1940. Our costs have soared, too! Yet, during the same period, the average price of telephone service has increased only 15%. Operating efficiencies and technical improvements have narrowed this gap, but they fall far short of closing it.

We think these facts speak for themselves—especially since telephone service today is better than ever before.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

How Telephone Company costs have gone up since 1940

Lead up	192%	Cable up	105%
Poles up	138%	Raw cotton up	260%
Copper up	119%	Buildings up	106%

yet phone service is up an average of only 15%

—more for some, less for others, of course, depending on the type of service and the use made of it.

And that's just one example of how inflation has hit us. The cable we hang on the poles has more than doubled in cost. The motor trucks we use are up even more. Central-office buildings cost twice what they did in 1940. In fact, everything needed to bring you telephone service costs a lot more today.

Everyone feels inflation. Your cost of living is up 89% since 1940. Our costs have soared, too! Yet, during the same period, the average price of telephone service has increased only 15%. Operating efficiencies and technical improvements have narrowed this gap, but they fall far short of closing it.

We think these facts speak for themselves—especially since telephone service today is better than ever before.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

How Telephone Company costs have gone up since 1940

Lead up 192%	Cable up 105%
Poles up 138%	Raw cotton up . 260%
Copper up ... 119%	Buildings up .. 106%

yet phone service is up an average of only 15%

— more for some, less for others, of course, depending on the type of service and the use made of it.

END SCUFFED-UP FLOORS

No need to re-polish floors so often! Cleaning is easier, too!

Hard Gloss Glo-Coat is a great new Johnson's Wax discovery. It gives all floors a harder, brighter shine!

Which means better-looking floors with far less work!

The shine is so super-hard it doesn't get a scuffed-up look. Not even after weeks of wear. Floors don't need polishing nearly so often.

A Hard Gloss Glo-Coat polish also resists soiling. Dirt doesn't grind in. A quick damp-mopping removes grime but leaves the shine.

Get Johnson's wonderful new Hard Gloss Glo-Coat tomorrow.

Warns About Polio

Lake Placid, June 3 (AP)—A state health department official, emphasizing that it is not a prediction, says "we may be in for a big year" for infantile paralysis. Dr. Robert F. Korns, director of the department's bureau of epidemiology and communicable disease control, said yesterday that polio cases this year were being reported upstate at twice the 1952 rate. A similar increase has been reported across the nation, Dr. Korns said in a symposium at the 49th annual state health conference, sponsored by the state health department. He termed the current polio situation "a little disturbing," but declined to predict the course of the disease in New York state this summer.

Yamity, Stoller Are Delegates to Townsend Parley

Nick Yamity, 74 Liberty street, and David N. Stoller, 222 Elmendorf street, are the first Kingston delegates certified to attend the Thirteenth National Convention of Townsend Clubs, scheduled this year for June 29 through July 4 in Cleveland, Ohio, it was announced today by Townsend national headquarters in Cleveland.

Both Yamity and Stoller are members of Kingston Club No. 1.

Principal speaker at the convention will be Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 86-year-old physician, who founded his plan in 1934.

For 18 years the organization has kept measures in Congress asking for "adequate social security." The Townsend bills now in Congress call for monthly payments for retired persons aged 60 or over, for persons who cannot be employed because of total disability, for the blind, and for widows who have dependent minor children.

This program would be financed by a two per cent tax levied on the gross income of all business and industry, and on the income of individuals in excess of $250 a month. The present social security tax, scaled to three per cent, would be eliminated.

Amounts paid per month would fluctuate with the national income and hence would be geared to the value of the dollar, so that recipients of pensions or benefits would not be penalized when the dollar value drops, as under the present fixed payment program.

Church Favors UN

Minneapolis, June 3 (AP)—Moving toward adjournment today, the 165 general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. was on record in calling upon the administration to continue making the United Nations a major cornerstone of U. S. foreign policy. "We also wish to encourage UN groups working in the fields of world disarmament and control of atomic energy," said the resolution of the church's committee on social education and action, approved by delegates late Tuesday. In the field of racial relations, the report urged Presbyterians to watch for possible violations of Christian brotherhood. "We rejoice in progress toward elimination of racial discrimination, but the situation is still explosive," the report went on, "it recommended that church members take part in activities of municipal human rights groups. The church also reaffirmed the right of individuals to object to military service on the basis of religious convictions, and went on record against peacetime conscription.

Delayed Tax Return

Denver (AP) — The next-to-last person to file his state income tax return at State Revenue Department headquarters on the final day was Larry M. Birnbaum, a member of the state auditor's staff. He explained he had been so busy helping others to file their returns he didn't get around to his until just before deadline.

Check Tax Returns

Albany, June 3 (AP)—The State Tax Commission today began mailing 700,000 form letters to persons who failed to file 1951 income tax returns. The forms were sent to individuals for whom no 1951 returns had been found to match forms filed by employers reporting compensation paid during that year. Individual returns for 1951 were due April 15, 1952. The state recovered more than 6 million dollars in delinquent taxes from more than 325,000 persons in a similar check covering the 1949 tax year. An additional 300,000 returns were received in that check from person who owed no tax but who were required to file. Commissioner Spencer E. Bates said the forms in the present check would be distributed over a period of several months.

Fails to Collect

Niebuell, Germany, June 3 (AP)—Dr. Boetius Hansen failed to collect his gold pin for driving 53 years without an accident. His car collided with a police vehicle en route to the ceremony.

Data on LIRR

New York, June 3 (AP)—Long Island commuters received statistics yesterday to back up their deepest suspicions: That the Long Island Rail Road is more crowded, breaks down more often and has dirtier and older cars than any other nearby line. Long Island commuters, 100,000 daily, do not suffer in silence, however. They turned in three times as many complaints as received by three other commuter railroads combined. The testimony was presented by Public Service Commission inspections at a PSC hearing giving formal consideration to the long standing protests. Speaking of long standing, LIRR passengers do that, too. Spot checks in April showed 19 of 47 trains had standees. One had nearly 30 per cent standing, 414 out of 1306 total passenger. Another, carrying 1573, had 253 standees.

Warns About Polio

Lake Placid, June 3 (AP)—A state health department official, emphasizing that it is not a prediction, says "we may be in for a big year" for infantile paralysis. Dr. Robert F. Korns, director of the department's bureau of epidemiology and communicable disease control, said yesterday that polio cases this year were being reported upstate at twice the 1952 rate. A similar increase has been reported across the nation, Dr. Korns said in a symposium at the 49th annual state health conference, sponsored by the state health department. He termed the current polio situation "a little disturbing," but declined to predict the course of the disease in New York state this summer.

Yamity, Stoller Are Delegates to Townsend Parley

Nick Yamity, 74 Liberty street, and David N. Stoller, 222 Elmendorf street, are the first Kingston delegates certified to attend the Thirteenth National Convention of Townsend Clubs, scheduled this year for June 29 through July 4 in Cleveland, Ohio, it was announced today by Townsend national headquarters in Cleveland.

Both Yamity and Stoller are members of Kingston Club No. 1.

Principal speaker at the convention will be Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 86-year-old physician, who founded his plan in 1934.

For 18 years the organization has kept measures in Congress asking for "adequate social security." The Townsend bills now in Congress call for monthly payments for retired persons aged 60 or over, for persons who cannot be employed because of total disability, for the blind, and for widows who have dependent minor children.

This program would be financed by a two per cent tax levied on the gross income of all business and industry, and on the income of individuals in excess of $250 a month. The present social security tax, scaled to three per cent, would be eliminated.

Amounts paid per month would fluctuate with the national income and hence would be geared to the value of the dollar, so that recipients of pensions or benefits would not be penalized when the dollar value drops, as under the present fixed payment program.

Church Favors UN

Minneapolis, June 3 (AP)—Moving toward adjournment today, the 165 general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. was on record in calling upon the administration to continue making the United Nations a major cornerstone of U. S. foreign policy. "We also wish to encourage UN groups working in the fields of world disarmament and control of atomic energy," said the resolution of the church's committee on social education and action, approved by delegates late Tuesday. In the field of racial relations, the report urged Presbyterians to watch for possible violations of Christian brotherhood. "We rejoice in progress toward elimination of racial discrimination, but the situation is still explosive," the report went on, "it recommended that church members take part in activities of municipal human rights groups. The church also reaffirmed the right of individuals to object to military service on the basis of religious convictions, and went on record against peacetime conscription.

Delayed Tax Return

Denver (AP) — The next-to-last person to file his state income tax return at State Revenue Department headquarters on the final day was Larry M. Birnbaum, a member of the state auditor's staff. He explained he had been so busy helping others to file their returns he didn't get around to his until just before deadline.

Check Tax Returns

Albany, June 3 (AP)—The State Tax Commission today began mailing 700,000 form letters to persons who failed to file 1951 income tax returns. The forms were sent to individuals for whom no 1951 returns had been found to match forms filed by employers reporting compensation paid during that year. Individual returns for 1951 were due April 15, 1952. The state recovered more than 6 million dollars in delinquent taxes from more than 325,000 persons in a similar check covering the 1949 tax year. An additional 300,000 returns were received in that check from person who owed no tax but who were required to file. Commissioner Spencer E. Bates said the forms in the present check would be distributed over a period of several months.

Data on LIRR

New York, June 3 (AP)—Long Island commuters received statistics yesterday to back up their deepest suspicions: That the Long Island Rail Road is more crowded, breaks down more often and has dirtier and older cars than any other nearby line. Long Island commuters, 100,000 daily, do not suffer in silence, however. They turned in three times as many complaints as received by three other commuter railroads combined. The testimony was presented by Public Service Commission inspections at a PSC hearing giving formal consideration to the long standing protests. Speaking of long standing, LIRR passengers do that, too. Spot checks in April showed 19 of 47 trains had standees. One had nearly 30 per cent standing, 414 out of 1306 total passenger. Another, carrying 1573, had 253 standees.

Eastern New York—Fair today with high 68-75. Increasing cloudiness with chance of showers Thursday and in north portion late tonight. Low tonight 42-50.

More Cool and Wet Weather Is Forecast

Washington, June 3 (AP)—More cool, wet weather in June was predicted for the northeastern U. S. today.

The west should also get more ratin than normal, the U. S. Weather Bureau said.

It released this prediction:

"The weather bureau's 30-day outlook calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals in the North and Middle Atlantic states, the eastern lake region and in states bordering the west coast. Above normal temperatures are expected to prevail over most of the great plains from Texas northward to the Canadian border, with greatest departures in the southern half of this area. Near normal temperatures are indicated in areas not mentioned.

"Precipitation is expected to be subnormal over the central third of the nation, but in excess of normal west of the continental divide and in the northeast. Elsewhere amounts not far from normal are predicted."

Pleasant Day Recorded

(By The Associated Press)

Another pleasant day was the outlook for wide areas of the nation today. There were some wet spots in the central and western sections of the country. Rain fell over most of Montana and showers and thunderstorms hit the eastern Dakotas, Minnesota and western Iowa. Skies were cloudy over the north Great Lakes region but generally fair weather prevailed in other parts of the country. Temperatures during the night ranged from 35 at West Yellowstone, Wyo., and 38 at Burlington, Vt., to 89 at Presidio, Tex. The nation's coolest region was from the eastern Great Lakes eastward to the New England coast.

Hunt Sex Slayer

London, June 3 (AP)—Police and U. S. military authorities spread a nationwide net today for a knife-wielding sex slayer who killed one teen-aged girl and possibly a second. They feared he might strike again. Detectives grilled more than 1,000 U. S. airmen at nearby Bushey Park Camp after the battered body of Barbara Songhurst, 16, was pulled from the Thames river. The girl had been missing since Sunday, when she went on a date with a friend, Christine Reed, 18. Police were convinced that Christine was killed, too. Her shoes were found on the river bank near signs of a bloody struggle and her bicycle was dragged from the river. Police said they planned to use navy divers to search the river for her body.

Begins Conferences

Taipeh, Formosa, June 3 (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, incoming chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of staff, began a round of conferences today with American and Chinese Nationalist officials. The Pacific Fleet commander arrived yesterday for a study of Chiang Kai-shek's armed forces. Radford dined with Chiang last night.

With a seating capacity of 87,000, the stadium at the University of Michigan is the largest college stadium in the United States.

Boy Scout News

Richard Gendreau, Advancement Chairman of the Kingston District has announced that arrangements have been made for Boy Scouts and Troops to use the swimming pool at the YMCA Monday evenings will be used for individual instruction of Scouts working on their First Class Scout requirement. An adult and an Explorer Life Guard will be on duty for instruction and precaution. Thursday evenings are reserved for Troop swims. Troops must reserve the pool through Louis Schaffer at the Y at least one week in advance and must provide their own adults and life guards. The capacity of the pool is 35 to 40 people and each Troop will be limited to one Troop swim a month.

Each participant either on the individual swim or Troop swim will be charged 25 cents except the night he passes his requirement for First Class or Swimming or Life Saving Merit Badges. Members of the Y, of course will not be charged at any time.

Scoutmasters are urged to announce this at their Troop meetings and immediately to take advantage of this offer.

Hunt Is Announced As Marbletown Winner

Memorial Day exercises were held by Marbletown Post 1512, American Legion, at Marbletown Central School, followed by the placing of Wreaths at the Honor Rolls in High Falls and Stone Ridge.

Theodore Hunt was declared the grand prize winner in the Post essay contest on Americanism for pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Marbletown Central School.

Other winners were as follows: First girl, Patricia Quick; second girl, Sarah Ann Civill; second boy, James Slater.

Of the 54 pupils in the two grades 34 entered the contest. Cash prizes will be awarded at graduation exercises.

Using Navy Jet Plan

Tokyo, June 3 (AP)—The air force has borrowed an idea from navy carriers and is using it to save jets and pilots in Korea. Far East Air Forces Headquarters said today that an aircraft arresting barrier—a net made of nylon webbing, steel cable and a heavy anchor chain—has been in use at a Korean air base since March 1 to stop crippled jets when they land after combat. Jets with their wing flaps shot away come in at a high speed and need a lot of runway to land. The net, which costs about $14,000 to construct, brings the $240,000 jets to an easy, gradual halt and prevents possible destruction.

ANSWER: There are several forms of insurance which cover that situation, a Personal Effects Floater being especially designed for it. In addition, you could get a Personal Property Floater; or a Residence and Outside Theft Policy, including Coverage in Unattended Automobile. More Cool and Wet Weather Is Forecast

Washington, June 3 (AP)—More cool, wet weather in June was predicted for the northeastern U. S. today.

The west should also get more ratin than normal, the U. S. Weather Bureau said.

It released this prediction:

"The weather bureau's 30-day outlook calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals in the North and Middle Atlantic states, the eastern lake region and in states bordering the west coast. Above normal temperatures are expected to prevail over most of the great plains from Texas northward to the Canadian border, with greatest departures in the southern half of this area. Near normal temperatures are indicated in areas not mentioned.

"Precipitation is expected to be subnormal over the central third of the nation, but in excess of normal west of the continental divide and in the northeast. Elsewhere amounts not far from normal are predicted."

Pleasant Day Recorded

(By The Associated Press)

Another pleasant day was the outlook for wide areas of the nation today. There were some wet spots in the central and western sections of the country. Rain fell over most of Montana and showers and thunderstorms hit the eastern Dakotas, Minnesota and western Iowa. Skies were cloudy over the north Great Lakes region but generally fair weather prevailed in other parts of the country. Temperatures during the night ranged from 35 at West Yellowstone, Wyo., and 38 at Burlington, Vt., to 89 at Presidio, Tex. The nation's coolest region was from the eastern Great Lakes eastward to the New England coast.

Hunt Sex Slayer

London, June 3 (AP)—Police and U. S. military authorities spread a nationwide net today for a knife-wielding sex slayer who killed one teen-aged girl and possibly a second. They feared he might strike again. Detectives grilled more than 1,000 U. S. airmen at nearby Bushey Park Camp after the battered body of Barbara Songhurst, 16, was pulled from the Thames river. The girl had been missing since Sunday, when she went on a date with a friend, Christine Reed, 18. Police were convinced that Christine was killed, too. Her shoes were found on the river bank near signs of a bloody struggle and her bicycle was dragged from the river. Police said they planned to use navy divers to search the river for her body.

Begins Conferences

Taipeh, Formosa, June 3 (AP)—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, incoming chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of staff, began a round of conferences today with American and Chinese Nationalist officials. The Pacific Fleet commander arrived yesterday for a study of Chiang Kai-shek's armed forces. Radford dined with Chiang last night.

With a seating capacity of 87,000, the stadium at the University of Michigan is the largest college stadium in the United States.

Using Navy Jet Plan

Tokyo, June 3 (AP) — The air force has borrowed an idea from navy carriers and is using it to save jets and pilots in Korea. Far East Air Forces Headquarters said today that an aircraft arresting barrier—a net made of nylon webbing, steel cable and a heavy anchor chain—has been in use at a Korean air base since March 1 to stop crippled jets when they land after combat. Jets with their wing flaps shot away come in at a high speed and need a lot of runway to land. The net, which costs about $14,000 to construct, brings the $240,000 jets to an easy, gradual halt and prevents possible destruction.

The answers to everyday insurance problems •

By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: We're going on a long trip and will drive our car. What is the best form of insurance for us to buy which would cover theft of luggage or other items from our car?

ANSWER: There are several forms of insurance which cover that situation, a Personal Effects Floater being especially designed for it. In addition, you could get a Personal Property Floater; or a Residence and Outside Theft Policy, including Coverage in Unattended Automobile. A good insurance agent could best advise you after learning what coverage you now have.

• If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
